international usability evaluation and case studies in cross cultural design Nature's Crossroads George Vrtis,Christopher W. Wells,2023-01-10 Minnesota s Twin Cities have long been powerful engines of change From their origins in the early nineteenth century the Twin Cities helped drive the dispossession of the region s Native American peoples turned their riverfronts into bustling industrial and commercial centers spread streets and homes outward to the horizon and reached well beyond their urban confines setting in motion the environmental transformation of distant hinterlands As these processes unfolded residents inscribed their culture into the landscape complete with all its tensions disagreements contradictions prejudices and social inequalities These stories lie at the heart of Nature s Crossroads The book features an interdisciplinary team of distinguished scholars who aim to open new conversations about the environmental history of the Twin Cities and Greater Minnesota Housing and Planning References ,1983 Representing Landscape

Architecture Marc Treib,2008-02-19 Representing Landscape Architecture offers a broad investigation of how the designed landscape is and has been represented for design study for criticism and even for its realization It has been said that we can only realize what we can imagine But in order to realize we must convey ideas to others as well as to ourselves

Representation is by no means neutral and the process of communication the process by which the imagination takes its first form itself necessarily limits the range of our design possibilities Computers further remove from cognitive processes and raise new questions about methods and limits Written by a team of renowned practitioners and academics this book is the best available reference to date on the many dimensions of landscape representation Public Space Stephen Carr,1992

The authors offer a perspective of how to integrate public space and public life They contend that three critical human dimensions should guide the process of design and management of public space the users essential needs their spatial rights and the meanings they seek Form and Fabric in Landscape Architecture Catherine Dee,2004-03-01 Form and Fabric in Landscape Architecture provides an original visual approach to the study of landscape architecture by creating a spatial morphology based on use and experience of landscapes It explores aesthetic spatial and experiential concepts by providing a structure through which landscapes can be understood and conceived in design Fabric is the integrated structure of whole landscapes while form refers to the components that make up this fabric Together form and fabric create a morphology of landscape useful for the development of visual spatial design thinking and awareness This book is intended as both an introduction to the discipline for students of landscape architecture architecture and planning and a source of continuing interest for more experienced environmental designers

Urban Parks Between Safety and Aesthetics Isabella M. Mambretti, Isabella Margherita Mambretti, 2011 The question of how to live in the city and increase the quality of urban life creates new challenges for both urban policies and academic research Urban parks are important keys for achieving a broader understanding of the urban landscape Open green spaces in every form are essential for life in our ever more urbanised society and are becoming a vital issue for the liveability of the urban environment The purpose of the present research is to acquire a more thorough knowledge of the evaluation of urban parks The study uses statistical analysis methods combined with landscape planning and visualisation methods The research provides an innovative and sophisticated point of view along with the means to improve the comprehension of people's preferences for alternative urban park scenarios The results are expected to create an advanced discussion platform and make a contribution towards improving knowledge of the public's perception of urban parks The investigation was conducted with empirical experiments on two parks in Zurich The functional component of the research is the visualisation of spatial data using powerful visualisation tools The theoretical prospect is the achievement of broader knowledge about individuals' perception of open green spaces focusing on previously unexplored experimental research combining conjoint analysis and visualisation methods The experiments created for the research are effective for modelling and explaining the significance that people assign to specific dimensions characterising different park scenarios Two motivations are at the base of the research exploring the use of conjoint analysis methods to study virtual urban parks and evaluating the use of visual stimuli with conjoint analysis
