EPA LIBRARY PUBLIC ACCESS PROCEDURES

1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this document is to establish Agency-wide procedures by which libraries in the EPA Library National Network facilitate public access to EPA documents and environmental information. These procedures do not cover information requests made under the Freedom of Information Act, otherwise known as FOIA requests.

2. SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY

These procedures apply to the EPA National Library Network and all EPA organizations that provide library services either onsite or through a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with another Network library. They provide baseline operational standards for all Network libraries. Individual libraries may develop local procedures to supplement the Network procedures.

3. AUDIENCE

The audience for these procedures includes Assistant Administrators, Deputy Assistant Administrators, Regional Administrators, Deputy Regional Administrators, Assistant Regional Administrators, Associate Administrators, Senior Information Officials, Information Management Officers, Federal Library Managers, Contract Library Managers, and EPA staff.

4. BACKGROUND

Since their inception, the mission of EPA's libraries has been to improve access to information for EPA decision making and environmental awareness. A parallel component has been to provide access for the public to Agency information. EPA's website is the primary conduit for public access to its information, including general information, program actions and activities, regulations, data, science, and educational materials. Access to EPA publications is also required by federal law, regulation, or policy through channels such as the Government Printing Office (GPO) and the National Technical Information Service (NTIS). However, the libraries of the EPA National Library Network also play a pivotal role in responding to public inquiries by developing tools such as the Online Library System (OLS) to assist the public in locating information, by managing collections such as print and electronic document repositories, and by providing expert assistance in organizing information for efficient retrieval, regardless of format. These procedures address ways in which EPA libraries will continue to facilitate public access to EPA documents and environmental information.
