Ainsworth A Railroad Town:

Ainsworth, a Railroad Town Bette Eunice Meyer, Barbara Kubik, 1983 Early Pasco Susan Davis Faulkner, 2009 Pasco originated during the building of the transcontinental railroad's last spur. This southeastern part of Washington was chosen as the site for a railroad bridge over the Snake River because of its proximity to the Columbia River which created a transportation line for needed supplies. Agriculture, railroads, and the rivers combined to create a livelihood for the people of Pasco amidst the region's desert terrain and sagebrush. By 1940 the area had grown to include nearly 5,000 individuals. Images of America: Early Pasco reveals the streets of historic Pasco and the people that were instrumental in building much more than a railroad town. Northwest Anthropological Research Notes Roderick Sprague, Deward E. Walker, Jr., An Annotated Bibliography of Overseas Chinese History and Archaeology Dixie E. Ehrenreich, Priscilla Wegars, Jonathan Horn and Karen E. Smith Abstracts of Papers Presented at the 37th Annual Northwest Anthropological Conference 21-23 March 1984 Spokane Washington Terrestrial Oriented Sites in a Marine Environment Along the Southern Oregon Coast Richard E. Ross A Check List of Columbia Basin Project Papers Roderick Sprague Forgotten Trails Ron Anglin, 2021-10-13 Indian inhabitants laid out the basic travel routes in central Washington's Grand Coulee country probably 10,000 to 12,000 years ago. In the early 1800s horse-oriented Native Americans continued to use these routes; a host of white frontiersmen followed in their footsteps. Though their passage is now largely forgotten, many individuals prominent in Western history traveled this way and kept excellent records. In Forgotten Trails, the most noteworthy and exciting of these accounts have been edited into a single volume. Included are the adventures of Lewis and Clark and the Canadian explorer David Thompson; early missionaries such as the Reverend Samuel Parker; railroad surveyors and scientists Paul Kane and other artists; as well as fur traders, miners, stockmen, military roadbuilders, and homesteaders. The book ends with the celebrated Grand Horse Roundup of 1906 and an enthralling Native American perspective. These firsthand accounts together with a chapter on traditional Plateau Indian culture and an oral history describing 19th-century Indian life render a portrait of the region's trails and travelers during its flamboyant and exciting frontier era. Forgotten Trails is an essential contribution to the literature of the Columbia Basin. Echoes of Exclusion and Resistance Laura J. Arata, Thomas E. Marceau, 2021-11-01 Like the rest of the American West, the mid-Columbia region has always been diverse. Its history mirrors common multiracial narratives but with important nuances. In the late 1880s Chinese railroad workers were segregated to East Pasco, a practice that later extended to all non-whites and continued for decades. Kennewick residents became openly proud of their status as a lily white town. In Echoes of Exclusion and Resistance, the third Hanford Histories volume, four scholars—Laura Arata, Robert Bauman, Robert Franklin, and Thomas E. Marceau—draw from the Hanford History Project, Atomic Heritage Foundation, and Afro American Community Cultural and Educational Society oral histories to focus on the experiences of non-white groups whose lives were deeply impacted by the Hanford Site. Linked in ways they likely could not know, each group resisted the segregation and discrimination they encountered and in the process challenged the region's dominant racial norms. The Wanapum evicted by Hanford Nuclear Reservation construction relate stories of their people as well as their responses to dislocation and forced evacuation. Unable to interact with the ancient landscapes and utilize the natural resources of their traditional lands, they suffered painful irretrievable losses. Early arrivals to the town of Pasco, the Yamauchi family built the American dream, including successful businesses and highly educated children, only to have their aspirations crushed by World War II Japanese American internment. Thousands of African Americans migrated to the area for wartime jobs and discovered rampant segregation. Through negotiations, demonstrations, and protests, they fought the region's ingrained racial disparity. During the early years of the Cold War, Black women, mostly from East Texas, also relocated to work at Hanford. They offer a unique perspective on employment discrimination, family, and faith.
