Antibody Fc Margaret Ackerman, Falk Nimmerjahn, 2013-08-06 Antibody Fc is the first single text to synthesize the literature on the mechanisms underlying the dramatic variability of antibodies to influence the immune response The book demonstrates the importance of the Fc domain including protective mechanisms effector cell types genetic data and variability in Fc domain function This volume is a critical single source reference for researchers in vaccine discovery immunologists microbiologists oncologists and protein engineers as well as graduate students in immunology and vaccinology Antibodies represent the correlate of protection for numerous vaccines and are the most rapidly growing class of drugs with applications ranging from cancer and infectious disease to autoimmunity Researchers have long understood the variable domain of antibodies which are responsible for antigen recognition and can provide protection by blocking the function of their target antigen. However, recent developments in our understanding of the protection mediated by antibodies have highlighted the critical nature of the antibody constant or Fc domain in the biological activity of antibodies. The Fc domain allows antibodies to link the adaptive and innate immune systems, providing specificity to a wide range of innate effector cells. In addition, they provide a feedback loop to regulate the character of the immune response via interactions with B cells and antigen presenting cells. Clarifies the different mechanisms of IgG activity at the level of the different model systems used, including human, genetic mouse, and in vitro. Covers the role of antibodies in cancer, infectious disease, and autoimmunity, and in the setting of monoclonal antibody therapy, as well as naturally raised antibodies. Color illustrations enhance explanations of the immune system.

Antibody Fc Stefan S. Weber, Annette Oxenius, 2013-08-06

In humans and mice, there exist a multitude of Fc receptors (FcRs) with different affinities and specificities for the different IgG subclasses. Engagement of FcRs on cells usually results in the initiation of an activating or inhibitory signaling cascade that can lead to multiple effector functions, including phagocytosis of opsonized pathogens or immune complexes. In this chapter, we discuss phagocytic cell types and their respective FcRs that they utilize to phagocytize IgG-coated particles, pathogens. Furthermore, we discuss downstream signaling mechanisms and resulting effects of FcR-mediated phagocytosis. Special emphasis is given to the role of FcR-mediated phagocytosis in phagocytes for pathogen uptake, subsequent intracellular localization, and pathogen control.
