Antimutagenesis and Anticarcinogenesis Mechanisms III Giorgio Bronzetti, Hikoya Hayatsu, Silvio De Flora, Michael D. Waters, Delbert M. Shankel, 2012-12-06 Lifestyle in any part of the world is associated with the occurrence of major chronic diseases including coronary heart disease hypertension and stroke many distinct types of cancer and adult onset diabetes 11 22 70 75 One important element of lifestyle is tobacco use which appreciably increases the risk of a number of chronic diseases 21 Other lifestyle factors relate to nutritional traditions alcohol use and exercise 11 30 58 60 70 71 The underlying evidence is in part based on the evidence of specific diseases in relation to dietary habits in a given geographic region as well as changes in such disease occurrences in migrant populations from a low risk to a high risk area and vice versa 25 42 Populations that customarily consume fruits and vegetables and also whole grain cereal products generally have a lower risk of cardiovascular diseases and specific types of cancer than populations with a lower intake of such foods everything else being equal 63 In the last few years research has provided mechanistic explanations as to the reasons for the protective effects of specific foods This paper will emphasize the mechanisms whereby cancer risks are reduced by dietary modification

Antimutagenesis and Anticarcinogenesis Mechanisms ; 3, 1991 Advances in Nutrition and Cancer 2 Vincenzo Zappia, Fulvio della Ragione, Alfonso Barbarisi, Gian Luigi Russo, Rossano dello Iacovo, 2013-03-09 This volume includes contributions presented at the Second International Symposium on Nutrition and Cancer held in Naples Italy in October 1998 at the National Tumor Institute Fondazione Pascale During the Conference experts from different disciplines discussed pivotal and timely subjects on the interactions between human nutrition and the development of malignancies Comparing the themes of this Meeting with those discussed at the First Symposium in 1992 the major scientific advancements certainly derive from the extensive use of molecular approaches to perform research in nutrition Moreover the fundamental observation of R Doll and R Peto 1981 which suggested that at least 35% of all cancers with large differences among different tumors might be prevented by dietary regimens has been definitively confirmed by epidemiological studies On the other hand the relationships between diet and cancer are quite intricate and complex it is difficult and at the same time not methodologically correct to reduce them to simple terms Metabolic and hormonal factors contaminants and biological agents and deficiency of specific protective nutrients are all pieces of the same puzzle continually indicate that antioxidants may contribute to reductions in cancer risks and that chronic consumption of low levels of chemical carcinogens in our diet may contribute to an increased risk of developing specific types of cancers Research also shows that in America today the leading causes of death are cancer and heart disease      Cancer Therapy Ferid
