Antarctic Scoop:

The Antarctic Scoop Lucy Jane Bledsoe, 2003 After twelve year old Victoria wins a science contest that enables her to travel to Antarctica she circumvents her disreputable sponsor and realizes her dream of visiting a South Pole telescope which allows astronomers to see back in time

Antarctic Scoop Lucy Jane Bledsoe, 2008-10-01 Twelve year old Victoria Von Woolf is a future astronomer trapped on the wrong continent Her parents have split up her classmates tease her for being a science nerd and the murky sky over New York City hardly ever reveals a single star She wishes she could disappear into a black hole and swirl through space time to another life So when an opportunity comes up for her to travel to Antarctica as the child star of Wild Explorer's next on line video she can't wait It's been her dream to become a scientist and study at the South Pole and this is a great first step But Victoria soon realizes that the intentions of the journey's sponsors aren't quite as clear as the polar sky Can she find a way to rescue a murky mission and an endangered wilderness

Antarctica in British Children's Literature Sinead Moriarty, 2020-11-29 For over a century British authors have been writing about the Antarctic for child readers yet this body of literature has never been explored in detail Antarctica in British Children's Literature examines this field for the first time identifying the dominant genres and recurrent themes and tropes while interrogating how this landscape has been constructed as a wilderness within British literature for children The text is divided into two sections Part I focuses on the stories of early twentieth century explorers such as Robert F Scott and Ernest Shackleton Antarctica in British Children's Literature highlights the impact of children's literature on the expedition writings of Robert Scott including the influence of Scott's close friend author J M Barrie The text also reveals the important role of children's literature in the contemporary resurgence of interest in Scott's long term rival Ernest Shackleton Part II focuses on fictional narratives set in the Antarctic including early twentieth century whaling literature adventure and fantasy texts contemporary animal stories and environmental texts for children Together these two sections provide an insight into how depictions of this unique continent have changed over the past century reflecting transformations in attitudes towards wilderness and wild landscapes

Picturesque Prison Jeffrey Heath, 1983 This study of the life and works of Evelyn Waugh traces the novelist's pursuit of his vocation and his long retreat from a world which he came to regard as a spiritual dungeon Jeffrey Heath explores the paradoxical elements in Waugh's career his quest for a refuge itself proved to be a prison and his devotion to the Augustan graces was accompanied by a lasting attraction to a Dionysiac age without restraint The deep cleft in Waugh's nature imbued his art with the characteristic quirky complexity which has fascinated many readers but it left him a choleric and melancholy man who never fully accepted his calling as a writer

Teaching Global Literacy Using Mnemonics Joan Ebbesmeyer, 2006-10-30 Have you ever wanted to think of a way for your students to remember world capitals or the rivers in a certain region Ebbesmeyer's book Teaching Global Literacy Using Mnemonics will help you do that and teach the national geography standards as well The book is divided into sections by continents Each section has a short introduction suggested annotated reading lists of picture and chapter books to motivate student interest in that geographic area and a mnemonic sentence rhyme or story that will help students remember the makeup of the country or continent discussed The mnemonics differ from the usual in that they are directly connected to the region people or culture being studied There is a simple map of the region and activities tied to the national standards for geography Activities focus on ideas to integrate global studies with all other areas of the curriculum and on ways to motivate teachers and students to extend the lessons and create their own ideas
