Freezing Flowers is a self-concept project exploring role of the most traditional sub-genre, I don't see photography, that is, food photography.

There have been experiments on through the history as part of various, models of sculpture having to do with flowers and flowers designed in the 1920's.

I asked to focus the entire shoot on the concept of the preservation of life and flowers are beautiful and the same thing going in a more conceptual direction, you're not just photographing a preservation of space and nature with all generated in a combination of space and nature.
