Adenauer To Kohl The Development Of The German Chancellorship:

Adenauer to Kohl Stephen Padgett, 1994-01 The authors provide a detailed examination of the parameters of executive leadership in Germany examining the constitutional framework Southern Chancellor party relations Padgett executive management Sturm the role of the Chancellor s Office Muller Rommel the Chancellor in foreign policy and policy making Paterson and his relations with organised interests Abromeit The book ends with an historical interpretation of the changing parameters of Chancellor authority The Kohl Chancellorship Clay Clemens, William E. Paterson, 2014-02-04 In this volume Helmut Kohl s leadership and legacy are assessed and contributors analyse the chancellor s goals and governing style including his part in promoting European integration and his domestic political role vis a vis his own party its main opponents and the public Developments in German Politics 3 Stephen Padgett, Gordon Smith, William E. Paterson, 1992 Once the miracle economy of the continent Germany now staggers under the massive cost burden of unification while it struggles to come to terms with global economic change Failure to confront the underlying economic weakness has discredited political institutions and patterns of political behavior that were once regarded as the efficient secret of economic success The country stands at the crossroads between economic reform and a spiral of economic decline with unpredictable fallout Bringing together entirely new chapters by leading authorities in the field Developments in German Politics 3 examines the unfolding crisis of German political economy its repercussions for polity politics and policy and the consequences for Germany s role in Europe and the wider world Like its predecessors this book will be of interest to all concerned with European politics and will be necessary reading for students of German politics and society Contributors David P Conradt Russell J Dalton Kenneth Dyson Klaus H Goetz Simon Green Adrian Hyde Price Charlie Jeffery Stephen Padgett William E Paterson Wolfgang R dig Martin Seeleib Kaiser Gordon Smith Roland Sturm Germany, Europe, and the Politics of Constraint Klaus Goetz, Kenneth Dyson, 2003-10-16 These essays examine the Europeanization of the political system of the Federal Republic of Germany across the polity politics and public policy dimensions The book s 17 chapters focus on three key themes the challenge to the power of Germany to determine the course of the integrationist project and to shape European public policies the increasing constraints in the domestic political arena associated with Europeanization and domestic contestation over both the constitutive politics of the EU and specific policy choices This volume is essential reading for students of comparative European politics and German studies The Foundations of Europe Thomas Hörber, 2007-12-18 Thomas Hörber analyses the building process of European integration He shows the parliamentary discourses of France Germany and Britain to be representative of the national position of these states towards the developing concept of Europe He covers all key events and developments of the time which had an impact on the European integration process and provides an explanation for the convergence of national discourses towards a common Europe This development was by no means a given and the analysis of parliamentary debates shows for the first time how vigorous the debates were on European integration in the 1950s and how despite setbacks notably the failure of the European Defence Community the discussion went in favour of integration

Germany's European Diplomacy Simon Bulmer, Charlie Jeffery, William E. Paterson, 2000 The way Germany engages with the other states of the EU is often oversimplified and misunderstood This book offers a nuanced analysis of the German role in the EU using a novel approach which identifies German influence in the EU in terms of soft power Rather than pursuing interests at the expense of other states this book focuses on the creation of a milieu of multilateral cooperation in which Germany's diplomatic interests can flourish

The Presidentialization of Politics Thomas Poguntke, Paul Webb, 2007-04-27 The Presidentialization of Politics shows that the politics of democratic societies is moving towards a presidentialized working mode even in the absence of formal institutional changes These developments can be explained by a combination of long term structural changes in modern politics and societies contingent factors which fluctuate over time While these contingent short term factors relate to the personalities of office holders the overall political agenda and the majority situation in parliament there are several structural factors which are relatively uniform across modern nations First the internationalization of modern politics which is particularly pronounced within the European Union has led to an executive bias of the political process which has strengthened the role of political top elites vis vis their parliamentary groups and or their parties Their predominance has been amplified further by the vastly expanded steering capacities of state machineries which have severely reduced the scope of effective parliamentary control At the same time the declining stability of political alignments has increased the proportion of citizens whose voting decisions are not constrained by long standing party loyalties In conjunction with the mediatization of politics this has increased the capacity of political leaders to by pass their party machines and to appeal directly to voters As a result three interrelated processes have led to a political process increasingly moulded by the inherent logic of presidentialism increasing leadership power and autonomy within the political executive increasing leadership power and autonomy within political parties and increasingly leadership centred electoral processes The book presents evidence for this process of presidentialization for 14 modern democracies including the US and Canada While there are substantial cross national differences the overall thesis holds modern democracies are increasingly following a presidential logic of governance through which leadership is becoming more central and more powerful but also increasingly dependent on successful immediate appeal to the mass public Implications for democratic theory are considered

A Converging Post-War European Discourse Thomas C. Hoerber, 2014-12-24 This book explores the most important components and contributing factors to the European integration process during the 1950s It seeks to combine comparative politics and political history to examine core themes such as war experience national security military security economic security societal security and research and education in three major European countries i e France Germany and Britain It analyses the references to the ensuing European integration process in national parliamentary debates analyzing which national needs were thought European integration could cater to but also which national positions were seen as being compromised by a closer European commitment The development of a national position on European integration and in turn the evolution of European concepts are considered by using discourse theory on parliamentary debates in France Germany and Britain Parliamentary discourses are shown to be an ideal source for analyzing grand themes such as European integration because they cover all fundamental ideas they have to be public and open ended deliberations which in turn determined the position of each country towards European integration The great variety of positions reflected in the parliamentary discourse in particular those which did not prevail and which did not find their way into the commonly accepted historical storyline of European integration provide a greater comprehensiveness and a better understanding of the history of the European integration process

The Foundations of Ostpolitik Julia von Dannenberg, 2008-01-10 Based on recently released archival sources this book is the first systematic analysis of the German Soviet negotiations leading to the conclusion of the Moscow Treaty of August 1970 This treaty was the linchpin of the New Ostpolitik launched by Chancellor Willy Brandt's government as a policy of reconciliation and an attempt to normalize relations with the countries of the Eastern bloc Focusing on the decision making processes both within the German domestic political system as well as within the international context this study offers a new interpretation of the shift from confrontational to détente politics at this time arguing that the Moscow Treaty was the product of various interrelated domestic and external factors As Dannenberg shows the change of government to a Social Liberal coalition was the first important precondition for Ostpolitik while the speedy conclusion of the Moscow Treaty owed much to the high degree of secrecy and centralization that characterized Brandt's policy making and that of his small coterie of advisors However Brandt's predominance in the decision making process does not mean that he alone determined the direction of policy His room for manoeuvre was amongst other things constrained by his coalition's narrow parliamentary majority as well as the Western Allies' special rights On the other hand German Soviet trade expansion public opinion and the emerging international interest in détente in the mid 1960s were crucial factors favouring Ostpolitik It was in this configuration of circumstances that Brandt placed himself at the forefront of the movement towards détente between East and West by introducing his bold diplomatic design one that had the reunification of Germany as its ultimate goal

Bureaucratic Elites in Western European States Edward C. Page, Vincent Wright, 1999-12-09 Bureaucratic Elites in West European States provides valuable information about the structures and composition of the higher civil service and its position in the political structure through a comparative analysis of Britain France Germany Italy Spain Belgium the Netherlands Austria Greece Denmark and Sweden The book explores how higher civil service has developed in the light of the massive changes in European societies in the past thirty years Changes include the size of the top level of the civil service the growing social diversity of its ranks and well as the tendency to recruit from outside the civil service The book also examines how wider social changes such as the democratisation of education the growth of interest groups and the increasing importance of the European Union impact on the higher levels of bureaucracy producing similar patterns of change throughout Europe
