Adjusting The Balance Federal Policy And Victim Services:

Adjusting the Balance Steven R. Smith, Susan Freinkel, 1988-01-13 This book offers a unique comparative perspective on the development of service programs for victims of four major violent crimes: child abuse, spouse abuse, rape, and crimes against the elderly. The study analyzes the evolution of federal policy in each area and examines the ways in which federal initiatives and federal funding affected the focus and financial stability of victim service programs. This book argues that the four issues were profoundly affected by the public policy process; the varied definition of the issues shaped by ways in which public funding was distributed. The book takes a broad view of the policymaking process to include all branches of the federal government as well as state and local government, the courts, and voluntary grass roots organizations. This book offers a unique comparative perspective on the development of service programs for victims of four major violent crimes: child abuse, spouse abuse, rape, and crimes against the elderly. The study analyzes the evolution of federal policy in each area and examines the ways in which federal initiatives and federal funding affected the focus and financial stability of victim service programs. This book argues that the four issues were profoundly affected by the public policy process; the varied definition of the issues shaped by ways in which public funding was distributed. The book takes a broad view of the policymaking process to include all branches of the federal government as well as state and local government, the courts, and voluntary grass roots organizations. While offering concrete information about four specific victims policies, the book also presents very important theoretical generalizations about the policymaking process and about the effect over time of that process on the definition and articulation of social problems in general.

Victims of Crime and the Victimization Process McShane, 2013-12-16
Volume 6 in the 6 volume series titled Criminal Justice: Contemporary Literature in Theory and Practice. This compilation of articles attempts to fill gaps in existing resources with some of the best current statements on the topic. Subjects include the characteristics of victims, the effects of crime on victims, and some contemporary theories of victimization. Also included are evaluations of a variety of victim-oriented policies and programs such as victim assistance, peace making, and victim impact statements. This title will be of great utility to students, scholars, and others with interests in the literature of criminal justice and criminology.

Critical Victimology R. I. Mawby, Sandra Walklate, 1994-03-07 Drawing on a wealth of local, national, and international sources, unpublished documents, and original research, this book provides a theoretical and practical critique of victimology. The authors outline and discuss the issues facing victims today and address the fundamental question: How can we best ensure justice for victims while at the same time preserving the rights of defendants? The search for answers raises other key questions: What are the risks of crime, and do they vary from country to country? What is the impact of crime on the victim? How are victims treated by police, welfare agencies, and courts? Why have governments become interested in victims? Can we learn from the experiences of policies in other nations? H

Towards a Critical Victimology Ezzat A. Fattah,2016-07-27 Towards a Critical Victimology offers a serious challenge to the law and order perspective on victims rights and the false contest that is usually created between those rights and the rights of offenders It sheds light on the way victim initiatives emerged the timing of those initiatives their seemingly ulterior motives and the political interests they are meant to serve The Oxford Handbook of Public Management Ewan Ferlie,Laurence E. Lynn Jr.,Christopher Pollitt,2005-10-27 The public sector continues to play a strategic role across the world The last thirty years have seen major shifts in approaches to public sector management in many countries There is also a fierce debate across academic disciplines about contemporary public administration management some advocate the use of more managerialist approaches while others see managerialism as undermining democratic institutions New roles have arisen such as programme evaluation management consulting and reliance on NGOs and partnerships which require new assessments There is an intensified need for an analysis of contemporary public sector organisations which are changing rapidly before our eyes It is thus time for an authoritative treatment of the major trends in public management embracing both their intended and unintended consequences This Handbook brings together leading international scholars to comment on key current issues The individual chapters include broad overviews in depth explorations of particular thematic areas and analyses of different theoretical perspectives such as political science management sociology and economics The authors have space to develop their distinctive arguments The editors provide an overall concluding chapter The Handbook combines scholarly rigour engaging writing and high policy relevance It will be invaluable to advanced students researchers and reflective public sector practitioners Home Safe Home Hilary Botein, Andrea Hetling, 2016-12-05 Housing matters for everyone as it provides shelter security privacy and stability For survivors of intimate partner violence IPV housing takes on an additional meaning it is the key to establishing a new life free from abuse IPV survivors often face such inadequate housing options however that they must make excruciating choices between cycling through temporary shelters becoming homeless or returning to their abusers Home Safe Home offers a multifaceted analysis that accounts for both IPV survivors needs and the practical challenges involved in providing them with adequate permanent housing Incorporating the varied perspectives of the numerous housing providers activists policymakers and researchers who have a stake in these issues the book also lets IPV survivors have their say expressing their views on what housing and services can best meet their short and long term goals Researchers Hilary Botein and Andrea Hetling not only examine the federal and state policies and funding programs determining housing for IPV survivors but also provide detailed case studies that put a human face on these policy issues As it traces how housing options and support mechanisms for IPV survivors have evolved over time Home Safe Home also offers innovative suggestions for how policymakers and advocates might work together to better meet the needs of this vulnerable population
