Admission Dispute Asian American Versus University Of California At Berkeley:

The Admission Dispute Teresa Chi-Chung Sun, 1997-03-13 Since the 1960s the enrollment of foreign and American born Asian students at the University of California at Berkeley UCB increased at a consistently higher rate than that of other minority groups Consequently a sharp decline of Asian American freshman enrollment at UCB in 1984 led to a five year admissions dispute between UCB and the Asian American community in California This book reconstructs the case identifies the causes and changes resulted from the dispute and discusses the related social issues It demonstrates the conflict between the overabundance of UCB eligible Asian American applicants and the goals of UCB s admissions policy to enroll students representing the cultural racial geographic and socio economic diversity of the California population The Admission Dispute Teresa Chi-Ching Sun, 1997 Since the 1960s the enrollment of foreign and American born Asian students at the University of California at Berkeley UCB increased at a consistently higher rate than that of other minority groups Consequently a sharp decline of Asian American freshman enrollment at UCB in 1984 led to a five year admissions dispute between UCB and the Asian American community in California This book reconstructs the case identifies the causes and changes resulted from the dispute and discusses the related social issues It demonstrates the conflict between the overabundance of UCB eligible Asian American applicants and the goals of UCB s admissions policy to enroll students representing the cultural racial geographic and socio economic diversity of the California population The Admission Dispute Teresa Chi-Chung Sun, 1997-03-13 Since the 1960s the enrollment of foreign and American born Asian students at the University of California at Berkeley UCB increased at a consistently higher rate than that of other minority groups Consequently a sharp decline of Asian American freshman enrollment at UCB in 1984 led to a five year admissions dispute between UCB and the Asian American community in California This book reconstructs the case identifies the causes and changes resulted from the dispute and discusses the related social issues It demonstrates the conflict between the overabundance of UCB eligible Asian American applicants and the goals of UCB s admissions policy to enroll students representing the cultural racial geographic and socio economic diversity of the California population Lau v. Nichols and Chinese American Language Rights Trish Morita-Mullaney, 2024-08-13 This book employs a narrative policy portraiture approach to recenter the stories of the Chinese community involved in the Lau v Nichols court case of 1974 This seminal Supreme Court case ruled that the failure to provide adequate and accessible instruction to approximately 1800 students of Chinese ancestry denied them the opportunity to participate in public education and constituted a discrimination on the basis of national origin While much has been written on language education policy changes for emergent bilinguals in the US the perspectives of the key actors involved in the case are rarely heard This book brings Chinese and Chinese American voices to the forefront placing the participants within the retrospective social context as they reach their own conclusions about the process and outcomes of the case It draws upon research in language policy and Asian American studies and invites readers to imagine the social futures and possibilities for what Lau v Nichols means for the 21st century and beyond The volume fills a significant gap in narration representation and retrospective research and will be of interest to graduate students and researchers in Asian American studies bilingual education educational policy and leadership as well as teachers school administrators and policymakers
