Addictions and Healing in Aboriginal Country Gregory Phillips, 2012 Learning from 50 Years of Aboriginal Alcohol Programs Peter d'Abbs, Nicole Hewlett, 2023-08-31 This open access book deals with community based attempts on the part of Aboriginal communities and groups in Australia to address harms arising from alcohol misuse Alcohol related harms are viewed as both a product of colonisation and dispossession and a contributor to ongoing social economic and health related disadvantage both in Australia and in other countries with colonised Indigenous populations such as Canada the US and New Zealand This book contributes to an evidence base by bringing together a selection of existing Australian documents considered by the editors to have continuing relevance to all those concerned with dealing with alcohol related harms among Aboriginal peoples These are contextualised in original chapters that recount key events ideas and programs The book is a practical resource for all people and groups concerned with addressing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander alcohol related harms both at the community level and at the level of policy making and administration

Indigenous People's Innovation Peter Drahos, Susy Frankel, 2012-08-01 Traditional knowledge systems are also innovation systems This book analyses the relationship between intellectual property and indigenous innovation The contributors come from different disciplinary backgrounds including law ethnobotany and science Drawing on examples from Australia New Zealand and the Pacific Islands each of the contributors explores the possibilities and limits of intellectual property when it comes to supporting innovation by indigenous people

How to Rethink Mental Illness Bernard Guerin, 2017-03-16 The world of mental illness is typically framed around symptoms and cures where every client is given a label In this challenging new book Professor Bernard Guerin provides a fresh alternative to considering these issues based in interdisciplinary social sciences and discourse analysis rather than medical studies or cognitive metaphors A timely and articulate challenge to mainstream approaches Guerin asks the reader to observe the ecological contexts for behavior rather than diagnose symptoms to find new ways to understand and help those experiencing mental distress This book shows the reader how we attribute mental illness to someone's behavior why we call some forms of suffering mental but not others what Western diagnoses look like when you strip away the theory and categories why psychiatry and psychology appeared for the first time at the start of modernity the relationship between capitalism and modern ideas of mental illness why it seems that women the poor and people of Indigenous and non Western backgrounds have worse mental health how we can rethink the hearing of voices more ecologically how self identity has evolved historically how thinking arises from our social contexts rather than from inside our heads Offering solutions rather than theory to develop a new post internal psychology How to Rethink Mental Illness will be essential reading for every mental health professional as well as anyone who has either experienced a mental illness themselves or helped a friend or family member who has Growing up Indigenous: Developing Effective Pedagogy for Education and Development R.M. Nichol, 2011-07-23 This is a fascinating account of traditional socialisation and Indigenous forms of learning in Australia and Melanesia It draws from rich ethnographic historical and educational material There has never been a greater need for a socially and historically informed yet critical account of the mismatch between traditional ways realities of life in Indigenous communities villages and enclaves and the forms of education provided in schools Raymond Nichol a specialist in Indigenous education and pedagogy surveys the links too often disparities between ethnographic detail of life on the ground and the schooling provided by nation states in this vast region Most importantly he explores and suggests ways community developers and educators Indigenous and non Indigenous may work to bridge the gaps in social rights educational and economic development This is relevant for all Indigenous communities their survival and development Many vexed issues are discussed such as race ethnicity identity discrimination self determination development and relevant effective pedagogical learning and schooling strategies Recent Advances in Indian Medical Anthropology P.C. Joshi, Chakraverti Mahajan, 2021-01-01 Medical Anthropology is one of the fastest growing sub disciplines of anthropology At a time when traditional medicines and alternative and complementary medicines are creating an important space within the domain of health care medical anthropology with its specialized methodology and holistic perspective is becoming crucial subject In Indian context the creation of separate Ministry of AYUSH and importance given to traditional knowledge in the field of medicines has necessitated that the scattered knowledge located in the remote tribal and isolated rural areas be compiled and consolidated This volume provides multifaceted insights into the current research in Medical Anthropology in India Providing inputs from seasoned as well as budding anthropologists it discusses the issues of disciplinary discourses healing strategies mental health and well being gender and health and health policy in diverse contexts Women's Health Liz Cartwright, Pascale Allotey, 2007-01-11 Combine advocacy with community based participatory research to help those who can't help themselves Recent natural man made and health related threats to our well being have created a need for researchers to develop new interventions to help the marginalized populations of the world who are most affected by these threats Women's Health New Frontiers in Advocacy Social Justice Research explores the importance of intervention efforts when the researcher takes on the role of advocate to represent those who can't represent themselves This unique book examines how the marginalization of community groups including refugee women rural women and Indigenous women affects their access to the programs and services they need in Australia New Zealand and the United States Women's Health New Frontiers in Advocacy Social Justice Research looks at different levels of community preparation in the research process examining implementations of the CBPR Community Based Participatory Research models that are specifically tailored to the needs of particular communities including a project on cervical cancer initiated by the Indigenous women of Australia and a five year study of Type 2 diabetes by Hispanic women and researchers in the Western United States The book's articles contributed by academics practitioners and researchers focus primarily on the concept that rigorous research can be conducted while still attending to the needs of community members through a more action oriented advocacy that promotes the special interests of those members Women's Health New Frontiers in Advocacy Social Justice Research examines qualitative and quantitative research findings on women with refugee backgrounds in Australia and New Zealand healthcare experiences of women living in rural Victoria Australia lay health advocacy cost effective options for reducing adverse health outcomes in resource poor settings domestic violence advocacy cancer screening and treatment among Indigenous women in Queensland Australia advocacy among Hispanic farmworkers in Southeast Idaho and much more Women's Health New Frontiers in Advocacy Social Justice Research is an important resource on the role of advocacy in community based participatory research The book is an essential professional resource for anyone working to address social injustice in marginalized communities Turning Mental Health into Social Action

Bernard Guerin, 2020-07-19 This book offers a refreshing new approach to mental health by showing how mental health behaviours lived experiences and our interventions arise from our social worlds and not from our neurophysiology gone wrong It is part of a trilogy which offers a new way of doing psychology focusing on people's social and societal environments as determining their behaviour rather than internal and individualistic attributions Mental health behaviours are carefully analysed as ordinary behaviours which have become exaggerated and chronic because of the bad life situations people are forced to endure especially as children This shifts mental health treatments away from the dominance of psychology and psychiatry to show that social action is needed because many of these bad life situations are produced by our modern society itself By providing new ways for readers to rethink everything they thought they knew about mental health issues and how to change them Bernard Guerin also explores how by changing our environmental contexts our local societal and discursive worlds we can improve mental health interventions This book reframes mental health into a much wider social context to show how societal structures restrict our opportunities and pathways to produce bad life situations and how we can also learn from those who manage to deal with the very same bad life situations through crime bullying exploitation and dropping out of mainstream society rather than through the mental health behaviours By merging psychology and psychiatry into the social sciences Guerin seeks to better understand how humans operate in their social cultural economic patriarchal discursive and societal worlds rather than being isolated inside their heads with a faulty brain and this will provide fascinating reading for academics and students in psychology and the social sciences and for counsellors and therapists

Mia Mia Aboriginal Community Development Cheryl Kickett-Tucker, 2016-10-24 Until recently Aboriginal people have been subjected to mainly top down development which has proven damaging to communities Mia Mia Aboriginal Community Development offers an alternative to such approaches promoting cultural security in order to empower Aboriginal people to strengthen their own communities The authors take a multidisciplinary approach to the topics of Aboriginal community development Aboriginal history cultural security and community studies This book includes chapters examining historical and contemporary Aboriginal conceptions of community development and the effects of post structuralism post modernism globalisation and digital technology As well as comprehensive analysis of community development in Aboriginal communities it presents practical strategies and tools for improvement Each chapter includes practical case studies and review exercises encouraging active learning and reflection A valuable resource for tertiary education students this book features contributions from some of Australia s most eminent Aboriginal scholars Elders and Aboriginal community members alongside contributions from community development practitioners
