Air Photography and Coastal Problems Mohamed T. El-Ashry, 1977 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1979 Coastal Problems Heather Viles, Tom Spencer, 2014-02-25 As coastal populations burgeon problems of erosion pollution and coastal change are becoming ever more serious and necessitate scientifically informed management strategies This authoritative new study discusses the causes of and possible solutions to some of the more pressing problems at the coast against a background of the natural geomorphological and ecological workings of coastal environments A holistic approach to the understanding of coastal problems is suggested which integrates geomorphology ecology and society through a consideration of the basic processes at work Coastal problems are caused by both human and natural impacts often working in conjunction with each other thus drawing on their wide experience of temperate and tropical coasts the authors consider all types of coastal problems ranging from those produced entirely naturally to those where the human impact dominates Extensive use is made of case studies drawn from around the world from beach erosion along the Nigerian coast to the recovery of the Vietnamese mangroves from war damage A major theme of the book is that given recent downgrading of predictions of future sea level rise it is the distinctive geomorphological ecological and societal aspects of each coast which are the vital factors Coastal Problems brings together material vital to any attempts to understand and manage our coasts and will be of interest to all those concerned with the environment and its management

Coastline Changes of the Baltic Sea from South to East Jan Harff, Kazimierz Furmańczyk, Hans von Storch, 2017-05-22 This book discusses sea level and coastline changes These topics are becoming increasingly important for populations living along the edge of the world's oceans and seas especially in areas where eustatic sea level rise is superimposed on isostatic subsidence and storm induced coastal erosion This is the case at the southern and eastern Baltic Sea coast in the south glacio isostatic subsidence enhances the effect of climate induced sea level rise and strong storm effects are causing a continuous retreat of the coast On the eastern coast glacio isostatic uplift compensates for eustatic sea level rise but storm induced waves are responsible for permanent morphodynamic changes to the coastline There is an increasing need for protection concepts for defense but also for the economic use of the different types of coastal zones The elaboration of these management concepts can be facilitated through models that generate future projections of coastal developments in the light of modern climate change This anthology comprises the results of the research project Coastline Changes of the southern Baltic Sea Past and future projection CoPaF funded by the Polish Ministry of Science and Higher Education which was run by a team of Estonian German Lithuanian and Polish geoscientists and coastal engineers from 2010 to 2013 and overlapped with and complemented the work of COST Action SPLASHCOS supported by COST European Cooperation in Science and Technology As the southern and eastern Baltic serves as a natural laboratory for the investigation of coastal processes the project's findings contribute not only to the solution of regional problems in Baltic

coastal research and engineering but also to worldwide interests in description modelling and parameterization of coastal processes and morphodynamics
