

Colonel Allensworth State Historic Park 30 MILES KM

In August 1908, Colonel Allen Allensworth and four other settlers established a town founded, financed, and governed by African-Americans. In 1974, California State Parks purchased land within the historical town site of Allensworth and it became Colonel Allensworth State Historic Park. Today a collection of lovingly restored and reconstructed early 20th-century buildings—including the Colonel's house, historic schoolhouse, Baptist church, and library—once again dots this flat farm country, giving new life to the dreams of these visionary pioneers.

Amtrak Stop: Amtrak San Joaquins occasionally stops at Allensworth for celebratory events, such as Juneteenth.

Death Valley National Park 210 MILES KM This is the nation's hottest, driest, and lowest national park: Badwater Basin inside the park, at 282 feet below sea level, is the lowest point on the North American continent. Death Valley also is the nation's largest national park outside of Alaska. It is a land of extremes, and those extremes make this park very popular with visitors. (Remember, there is a reason it is called "Death Valley.") Not only is Death Valley rich in beauty and pioneer history, it was known as a prosperous mining mecca for many decades. Today it provides camping, hiking, bicycling, and nature exploring opportunities.

Amtrak Stop: Death Valley National Park provides outstanding chances to see the stars. The park is designated as the largest Dark Sky National Park in the country by the International Dark Sky Association, and is a Gold Tier Dark Sky Park, the highest level awarded.

Randsburg 94 MILES KM This living ghost town is a fun stop on your way between Death Valley or Las Vegas and Bakersfield. The main street's old Western storefronts resemble a Hollywood back lot, providing numerous unique and colorful photo opportunities from California's old mining days. Whether you are one of the many off-roaders who visit Randsburg, or are simply exploring the desert, check out the White House Saloon, with its stamped-tin ceiling and very long bar. A few steps away are the Rand Desert Museum, some antique shops, and the old jail.

Amtrak Stop: Many of Randsburg's businesses are only open on weekends. On certain weekends, the small town is very popular with off-road vehicles and motorcyclists.

Red Rock Canyon State Park 17 MILES KM The spectacular rock formations of various colors and shapes that rise from the desert have long been used by film crews as settings for westerns or science-fiction films. Here you will find walking and hiking trails, as well as camping facilities.

Amtrak Stop: If you do not have time for a long visit, many of Red Rock Canyon's dramatic rock formations are easily viewed from Highway 14.

Tehachapi Loop 31 MILES KM This engineering marvel attracts train fans from all over the world. It is one of the seven wonders of the railroad world, where you can watch long trains pass over themselves as they go around the spiral loop. The railroad line was cut through solid and decomposed granite by up to 3,000 laborers from Guangzhou, China, between 1874 and 1876. They used picks, shovels, horse-drawn carts, and blasting powder. This was part of the final link of the first railroad line connecting San Francisco to Los Angeles. This single track line, essentially unchanged, is still in constant use today with an average of
