Fay, William N. Tavolga, 2012-12-06 This volume constitutes a series of invited chapters based on presentations given at an International Conference on the Sensory Biology of Aquatic Animals held June 24-28 1985 at the Mote Marine Laboratory in Sarasota Florida The immediate purpose of the conference was to spark an exchange of ideas concepts and techniques among investigators concerned with the different sensory modalities employed by a wide variety of animal species in extracting information from the aquatic environment By necessity most investigators of sensory biology are specialists in one sensory system different stimulus modalities require different methods of stimulus control and generally different animal models Yet it is clear that all sensory systems have principles in common such as stimulus filtering by peripheral structures tuning of receptor cells signal to noise ratios adaption and disadaptation and effective dynamic range Other features such as hormonal and efferent neural control circadian reorganization and receptor recycling are known in some and not in other senses The conference afforded an increased awareness of new discoveries in other sensory systems that has effectively inspired a fresh look by the various participants at their own area of specialization to see whether or not similar principles apply This inspiration was found not only in theoretical issues but equally in techniques and methods of approach The myopia of sensory specialization was broken in one unexpected way by showing limitations of individual sense organs and their integration within each organism For instance studying vision one generally chooses a visual animal as a model Advances in the Study of Behavior ,1995-07-27 Advances in the Study of Behavior continues to serve scientists across a wide spectrum of disciplines Focusing on new theories and research developments with respect to behavioral ecology evolutionary biology and comparative psychology these volumes serve to foster cooperation and communication in these diverse fields
