Anaesthesia Science:

Anaesthesia Science Nigel Webster, Helen F. Galley, 2008-04-15 Anaesthesia Science presents the scientific foundations upon which the clinical practice of anaesthesia and care of the critically ill are based. Written on the basis that basic science underlies the practice of anaesthesia. Contributors include some of the world's most eminent anaesthesiologists. Provides coverage on less well appreciated aspects of the subject such as the microcirculation, multi organ failure and the theory of pain. Thoroughly integrates the clinical practice of anaesthesia with basic sciences providing all the information needed in one convenient source. Based on the Fellowship of the Royal College of Anaesthetists FRCA syllabus and aimed at trainee anaesthetists preparing for the FRCA, the European Diploma of Anaesthesiology and other equivalent examinations. The Anaesthesia Science Viva Book Simon Bricker, 2017-08-31 This third edition of the highly successful The Anaesthesia Science Viva Book contains detailed accessible summaries of the core questions in anatomy, physiology, pharmacology and clinical measurement that may be asked in the oral section of the Final FRCA exam. In addition to comprehensive updating of all the topics, this edition includes new subject material in each of the four basic sciences with almost 200 detailed summaries of the most relevant topics in the examination. This volume once again gives candidates an insight into the way the viva works, offering general guidance on exam technique and providing readily accessible information relating to a wide range of potential questions. Written by a former senior examiner for the diploma of the Fellowship of the Royal College of Anaesthetists and listed as recommended reading by AnaesthesiaUK, the prime educational resource for trainee anaesthetists, it remains an essential purchase for every Final FRCA candidate. Foundations of Anesthesia Hugh C. Hemmings, Philip M. Hopkins, 2006-01-01 Accompanying CD ROM allows you to download figures into PowerPoint for electronic presentations. p 4 of cover. The Anaesthesia Science Viva Book Simon Bricker, 2008-11-20 In recent years the basic science viva of the Final FRCA has evolved a more clinical perspective. The new edition of the highly successful Anaesthesia Science Viva Book incorporates this new clinical emphasis, giving candidates an insight into the way the viva works, offering general guidance on exam technique and providing readily accessible information relating to a wide range of potential questions. Questions are divided broadly into the four areas covered by the exam: applied anatomy, physiology, pharmacology and clinical measurement. Answers have been constructed to provide candidates with more than enough detail to pass the viva. Covering the full scope of the basic science syllabus and written by an experienced FRCA examiner, The Anaesthesia Science Viva Book second edition is an essential purchase for every Final FRCA candidate. Scientific Foundations of Anaesthesia Cyril Scurr, Stanley A. Feldman, 1982. General Anesthesia: From Theory to Experiments Axel Hutt, Anthony G. Hudetz, 2016-01-15 General anesthesia is a standard medical procedure in today's hospital practice. Although in most cases the administration of anesthetics does not affect severely the patient's health, side effects of anesthesia are well known, such as nausea or cognitive impairment. Moreover, 12 out of 1000 patients under surgery report a partial wake up from anesthesia during the operation.

The reason for such a partial lack of control of depth of anesthesia is that medical procedures are highly optimized based on experience but the neural dynamics during general anesthesia is far from being understood. One reason for this lack of understanding is both the complex neural interactions of neurons on different spatial and temporal scales and the poorly understood action of anesthetics on neural populations. For instance, anesthetic agents act on synaptic receptors on a microscopic scale, essentially evoking a macroscopic change of population activity such as Local Field Potentials, EEG, MEG, or resulting change of cerebral blood flow. This population effect then triggers the loss of consciousness in patients. This Research Topic aims to address recent theoretical and experimental advances in the field. The theoretical and experimental studies represent a good overview over the current state of research in the field and provides a deeper insight into the underlying neural mechanisms. Each article in the issue focusses on a specific current research topic in general anesthesia research, and several articles introduce to the topic in a pedagogical way. The issue covers various types of anaesthesia and the most important topics in the field such as, but not limited to, recent advances in theoretical models and states of consciousness reflected in experimental data, the connectivity changes observed during anesthesia, or effects of specific drugs on brain activity. The introduction style of the papers facilitates the reader to understand the background of the research aspect and even allows readers not familiar with general anesthesia research to enter the research domain. Hence the Research Topic aims to provide on one hand an overview of the current state of the art and on the other hand a good starting point for new researchers in the field.

close circle of anaesthetic scientists but with the help of computer technology has greatly influenced the practice of the modern clinical anaesthesiologist. The efforts of anaesthesiologists, pharmaceutical companies and the development of the internet has led to a situation that now almost every anaesthesiologist can be in close contact to anaesthetic pharmacology, computer simulation programs and target controlled infusion devices. These two tools allow us to increase our understanding and improve the controllability of anaesthetic drug administration on site in the operating theatre. In Europe, the growing enthusiasm regarding the study and practice of intravenous anaesthesia has led to an increased output of manuscripts on this subject, the initiation of workshops on the pharmacology of anaesthetic agents and the formation of a society that embodies this spirit: the European Society for Intravenous Anaesthesia, the EuroSIVA. EuroSIVA. The concept of EuroSIVA has been to provide a forum to coordinate, facilitate and promote high quality presentations in the area of intravenous drug administration. The first two meetings held in 1988 in Barcelona and 1999 in Amsterdam achieved these aims. During the Barcelona and Amsterdam meetings, presenters from over 10 countries shared their knowledge with 250 and 400 participants respectively. In addition to the EuroSIVA meetings, the international board aims to promote education for those involved with intravenous anaesthesia.
