Irish Childhoods Pádraic Whyte, 2011-05-25 While much has been written about Irish culture's apparent obsession with the past and with representing childhood, few critics have explored in detail the position of children's fiction within such discourses. This book serves to redress these imbalances, illuminating both the manner in which children's texts engage with complex cultural discourses in contemporary Ireland and the significant contribution that children's novels and films can make to broader debates concerning Irish identity at the end of the twentieth and beginning of the twenty-first centuries. Through close analysis of specific books and films published or produced since 1990, Irish Childhoods offers an insight into contrasting approaches to the representation of Irish history and childhood in recent children's fiction. Each chapter

interrogates the unique manner in which an author or filmmaker engages with twentieth century Irish history from a contemporary perspective and reveals that constructions of childhood in Irish children's fiction are often used to explore aspects of Ireland's past and present

Ameliorating Mental Disability Alfred A. Baumeister, This book grows out of the optimistic view that mental retardation can be treated. It views mental retardation primarily as a behavioral problem. A child is diagnosed as retarded primarily because he behaves in certain maladaptive ways not simply because he may have a chromosomal anomaly. The contributors view any intervention intended to produce adaptive changes in the behavior of the retarded as treatment. The authors come from the fields of medicine, special education and speech and hearing as well as from psychology. The book is intended to help students and workers in the field apply research findings and theoretical formulations in their appraisal and treatment of mental retardation. The primary emphasis of the book is empirical. While many of the author's suggestions have not been subjected to rigorous experimental scrutiny, almost all have been derived from close examination of the research literature. A wide diversity of topics are included in this volume. Criteria employed were the relevance of the topic to the understanding and modification of defective behavior and the subject's popularity or neglect in other sources. Ameliorating Mental Disability will be of interest to medical officers in institutions for the mentally challenged, lecturers giving courses for teachers of the educationally subnormal and to psychologists, social workers and teachers. Alfred A. Baumeister is professor in the department of psychology and psychiatry at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. His primary research deals with the prevention of children's health problems and public policy affecting children at risk. He is the author of numerous journal articles and book chapters.

What Women Watched Marsha F. Cassidy, 2009-04-20 In this pathfinding book based on original archival research, Marsha F. Cassidy offers the first thorough analysis of daytime television's earliest and most significant women's genres, appraising from a feminist perspective what women watched before soap opera rose to prominence. After providing a comprehensive history of the early days of women's programming across the nation, Cassidy offers a critical discussion of the formats, programs and celebrities that launched daytime TV in America: Kate Smith's variety show and the famed singer's unsuccessful transition from patriotic radio star to 1950s TV idol; the charm boys Garry Moore, Arthur Godfrey and Art Linkletter, whose programs honored women's participation but in the process established the dominance of male hosts on TV; and the misery shows Strike It Rich and Glamour Girl and the controversy, both critical and legal, they stirred up. Cassidy then turns to NBC's Home show starring the urbane Arlene Francis, who infused the homemaking format with Manhattan sophistication, and the ambitious daily anthology drama Matinee Theater, which strove to differentiate itself from soap opera and become a national theater of the air. She concludes with an analysis of four popular audience participation shows of the era: the runaway hit Queen for a Day, Ralph Edwards's daytime show of surprises It Could Be You, Who Do You Trust starring a youthful Johnny Carson, and The Big Payoff featuring Bess Myerson, the country's first Jewish Miss America. Cassidy's close feminist reading of these shows clearly demonstrates how daytime TV mirrored the
