A Wet Season:

Time-Series Observations of Ocean Acidification: a Key Tool for Documenting Impacts on a Changing Planet

Abed El Rahman Hassoun, Adrienne J. Sutton, Sam Dupont, Jose Martin Hernandez-Ayon, Xianghui Guo, 2025-04-15 Ocean acidification is a global phenomenon with local effects Marine ecosystems are facing multiple stressors leading to significant changes Time series observations are the basis to understand these changes and distinguishing between natural and anthropogenic variability of physical chemical and biological components of marine environments Moreover field monitoring is often neglected as a tool to document the responses of marine organisms and key habitats to ocean acidification Time series observations of ocean acidification are thus critical to understanding the current threats that the ocean s ecosystems are witnessing and efficiently developing and implementing adaptation and mitigation solutions Time series dedicated to observing ocean acidification other stressors as well as biological parameters are the baseline for long term assessment of the ocean s health and for evaluating the efficiency of local and global actions toward achieving climate targets Therefore the goal of this Research Topic is to highlight the latest research efforts conducted to document ocean acidification patterns and trends and their consequences on marine life In this issue we will focus on new and old time series stations efforts to bridge physical chemical and biological observations and their application for modeling and future projections Proceedings of the Annual Climate Diagnostics Workshop ,1985 Six Rivers National Forest (N.F.), Lower Trinity and Mad River Motorized Travel Management ,2010 Crocodiles, Their Ecology, Management, and Conservation ,1989

Rice-maize systems in Asia: current situation and potential ,2011 Rice maize R M cropping systems have emerged in recent years on 3 5 million hectares in Asia in response to the increasing demand from a rapidly expanding human population for rice and livestock products They are rapidly spreading in southern and northeastern India and Bangladesh driven by the rising demand for maize by the poultry and fish sectors and the tightening world export import markets The recent development of short duration rice varieties and maize hybrids with improved drought tolerance is also providing opportunities for the expansion of R M systems into areas of South Asia with insufficient irrigation or rain for continuous rice cultivation Agroecologically R M systems have the potential to expand into broad climatic zones across Asia Because strong economic multipliers exist between food production and feed and livestock production more diversified cropping systems are also likely to become a key engine for economic growth in rural areas of Asia This will contribute to more diversified diets improved human nutrition reduced poverty and greater investment in other aspects of quality of life such as education and health care R M systems will also provide new business opportunities for the local agribusiness sector including hybrid seed production and marketing the fertilizer sector the agricultural machinery sector and the grain marketing and livestock feed processing sector Recognizing the importance of diversifying cropping systems in Asia and the need for system level research to support new opportunities for agricultural development IRRI and CIMMYT scientists in collaboration with NARES partners have recently begun work on R M systems in many countries of Asia This report contains information on a strategic assessment of R M systems for 29 selected sites representing diverse soils climate and agroecosystems across nine countries in Asia Bangladesh China India Indonesia Nepal Pakistan the Philippines Thailand and Vietnam Conducted jointly by IRRI and CIMMYT the process involves regional and site level biophysical assessment supported by socioeconomic evaluation using economic data at the regional level and some microeconomic data Biophysical assessment includes agroecosystem characterization of R M systems analysis of historical daily climatic data and regional level prediction of yield potential for the 29 sites The study then provides a detailed analysis of 10 selected sites to understand existing cropping systems identify alternative potential systems and explore measures to optimize these The Cereal Systems Initiative for South Asia CSISA a project funded by the Gates Foundation and USAID in Bangladesh India Nepal and Pakistan was launched in early 2009 It now provides an overall strategy and a new umbrella for contributing new science and technologies to accelerate short and long term cereal production growth in South Asia s most important grain baskets It builds on technologies developed and lessons learned from the Rice Wheat Consortium RWC and many other investments in agricultural R D by both the public and private sector Through creating and facilitating innovative and effective public private sector partnerships in key hubs in South Asia CSISA will boost the deployment of existing varieties hybrids crop and aquaculture related management technologies and market information The results from the strategic assessment of R M systems are already being used in several CSISA hubs
