A Traveller In China By Dodwell Christina:

A Traveller in China Christina Dodwell, 2005-12 Christina Dodwell's wanderlust combined with her inventive and unorthodox methods of travel and her unquenchable curiosity about people make her the ideal guide to the remoter parts of China's vast territory. She visits regions largely inhabited by the many ethnic minority groups still living their distinctive lifestyles. A four-day bus journey to Kashgar begins Christina's journey followed by a canoe journey from Lake Karakol. She followed Marco Polo's route to Beijing past the ruined cities of the Silk Road. In Xinjiang she spent time with migrating Kazakhs setting up their summer camp. Her canoe journey on the Yellow River resulted in her finding a hitherto unknown portion of the Great Wall and in Beijing she tracked down the house in which her grandmother had lived in the time of the warlords. In a side trip to Tibet Christina spent time in a nomad tent sharing the elaborate plaiting and ornamentation ritual of a woman's hairdressing session. Christina joins Chinese tourists when she visits the oldest surviving frescoes in China the Xian terracotta army and spends a few days at the famous lamasery of Taer si. She witnessed the dragon boat race on Lake Er Hai. But her most precious moments were camping alone on the edge of an ice-bound lake finding a way to unvisited beehive tombs in the Gobi climbing a remote sacred mountain in Yunnan Province and paddling her small canoe cautiously into the mighty Yangtze. Christina's great courage, open mind and unbounded curiosity enable her to go to places few would dare visit and she almost invariably finds kindness and hospitality wherever she travels. Not So Innocent Abroad Ulrike Brisson, Bernard Schweizer, 2009-10-02 With its specific focus on the connections between politics, travel and travel writing Not So Innocent Abroad offers a fresh approach to the study of travel literature. The authors make clear that travel and travel writing are never an innocent enterprise; rather, journeying always occurs within political systems and travel writing either reflects the traveler's political stance, includes political aspects of foreign cultures, or directly or indirectly influences political decisions. In contrast to most scholarly publications that primarily focus on travel literature of former colonial nations, this volume includes a broader range of travelogues depicting cultures worldwide spanning from the eighteenth to the twenty-first century. It thus offers, with its comparative approach, not only a geographically wide selection but also an historical dimension to the political aspects of travel writing. Although most travel literature generally has followed the Horatian principle to instruct and delight the armchair traveler, the authors of this volume clearly address the broader political implications of travel and travel writing within networks of naked politics such as international or interior conflicts, emigration laws or national propaganda. They also reveal how insidiously political messages are dissimulated through travel writing.

China - Yunnan Province Stephen Mansfield, Martin Walters, 2007 Located in southwest China, Yunnan Province is the centre of a growing focus on ecotourism. This guide covers Yunnan's many attractions including the provincial capital of Kunming, legendary Yangtze and Mekong rivers, Buddhist stupas and Tibetan border monasteries.

Three Traveling Women Writers Natália Fontes de Oliveira,2017-09-13 This book presents an alternative framework for reading nineteenth century women s travel narratives by challenging the traditional paradigms which often limit women s space in print culture For the first time through a comparative lens a Latin American woman s travel narrative is analyzed concomitantly with the narratives of a North American and a European writer Contrary to the common assumption that Latin American women were powerless victims of imperialism elite women had access to the predominant philosophies of their time traveled around the globe and wrote about their experiences This book examines how an Argentinian writer together with an English and an American writer manipulate their bourgeois identity to inhabit the male dominated sphere of print culture By travelling and publishing travel narratives the three traveling women writers search for empowerment to establish their authority as writers and shapers of knowledge in literature Utilizing several concepts and criticisms including Aristotle's rhetoric Foucault's theories travel writing criticism postcolonial discourse and feminist literary criticism this volume attempts to challenge old fashioned archetypes and confinements of gender for traveling women writers in the nineteenth century A Traveller in China C.
