Connor, 2024-07-22 Mid Century Romance chronicles a revival of the historical novel in the middle decades of the twentieth century in the cultures of British modernism and international communism Born of a national turn in world politics these novels met the turbulence of mid century history with narratives of national becoming roadmaps to situate their readers in the pattern of social change Their writers were often mindful of the genre s romantic era heritage they saw themselves as following in the footsteps of Sir Walter Scott and they drew on the same rescued remains of primitive poetry and popular antiquities that romanticism first used to construct its versions of national identity culture and tradition This book shows how the impulse to salvage traces of ancestral culture and press them to new purpose links the mid century national historical novel to the rise of radical social history and magical realism Post war anticommunism shaped a tradition of the novel as a preserve of art and the individual Mid Century Romance counters with a different genealogy of the British and world novel whose object is society and the future of community the nation and its people It situates its cast of British writers including the modernists Hope Mirrlees and Virginia Woolf the communists Jack Lindsay and Sylvia Townsend Warner the eccentric modernist and sometime fellow traveller John Cowper Powys and the New Left luminary Raymond Williams in a transnational perspective that reaches from Bihar India to Bahia Brazil The Child and the Book Nicholas Tucker, 1990-09-13 This study considers the appeal of popular children s books from both a psychological and a literary viewpoint It covers a range of reading matter including picture books fairy stories myths and legends comics and books for teenagers and adolescents A Whiff of Burnt Boats, 1949 Left Out Kimberley Reynolds, 2016-07-21 Left Out presents an alternative and corrective history of writing for children in the first half of the twentieth century Between 1910 and 1949 a number of British publishers writers and illustrators included children's literature in their efforts to make Britain a progressive egalitarian and modern society Some came from privileged backgrounds others from the poorest parts of the poorest cities in the land some belonged to the metropolitan intelligentsia or bohemia others were working class autodidacts but all sought to use writing for children and young people to create activists visionaries and leaders among the rising generation Together they produced a significant number of both politically and aesthetically radical publications for children and young people This radical children's literature was designed to ignite and underpin the work of making a new Britain for a new kind of Briton While there are many dedicated studies of children's literature and children's writers working in other periods the years 1910-1949 have previously received little critical attention In this study Kimberley Reynolds shows that the accepted characterisation of inter-war children's literature as retreatist anti-modernist and apolitical is too sweeping and that the relationship between children's literature and modernism left-wing politics and progressive education has been neglected Bridge Built Halfway Malcolm MacLeod, 1990-10-01 Malcolm MacLeod begins his history of Memorial University College by describing the forces that promoted the creation of Newfoundland's own higher education institution and the conditions that frustrated its advancement such as the uneasy development of educational co-operation between religious denominations MacLeod goes on to analyse different aspects of institutional life to 1950 such as the institution's governance and patterns of staffing the students' social backgrounds and the college's curriculum He also outlines Memorial's links with other aspects of society and provides the historical and social framework for its development leading us through the optimism of the twenties and the depression of the thirties to the abandonment of self-government and the overwhelming changes that came with and after the war He concludes by contrasting Memorial's slow and uncertain progress before 1950 with its achievements since and by placing Memorial in the context of the development of higher education in Canada and the modernization of Newfoundland

Thicker Than Water Leonore Davidoff, 2012 A pioneering new study of nineteenth-century kinship and family relations focusing on the British middle class and highlighting both the similarities and the differences in relations between brothers and sisters in the past and in the present The Kirkus Service, 1948 Canon Constitution and Canon Change in Children's Literature Bettina Kümmerling-Meibauer, Anja Müller, 2016-12-01 This volume focuses on the de-canonization processes in children's literature considering the construction and cultural/historical changes of canons in different children's literatures Chapters by international experts in the field explore a wide range of different children's literatures from Great Britain Germany Scandinavia the Low Countries Eastern and Central Europe as well as from Non-European countries such as Australia Israel and the United States Situating the inquiry within larger literary and cultural studies conversations about canonicity the contributors assess representative authors and works that have encountered changing fates in the course of canon history Particular emphasis is given to sociological canon theories which have so far been under represented in canon research in children s literature The volume therefore relates historical changes in the canon of children s literature not only to historical changes in concepts of childhood but to more encompassing political social economic cultural and ideological shifts This volume s comparative approach takes cognizance of the fact that if canon formation is an important cultural factor in nation building processes a comparative study is essential to assessing transnational processes in canon formation This book thus renders evident the structural similarities between patterns and strategies of canon formation emerging in different children s literatures Book Review Index ,1974 Every 3rd issue is a quarterly cumulation
