

A World Made Of Fire

Marion Zimmer Bradley

A World Made Of Fire:

A World Made of Fire Mark Childress, 2011-03 Mark Childress is an artist with an ear comparable to Eudora Welty's which to me is the highest praise one can give. I haven't read a Southern novel since Losing Battles that has given me such pleasure. Harper Lee, author of To Kill a Mockingbird, the sense of reality with which Childress imbues his characters and their situation is remarkable. He has the true novelist's ability to commit himself entirely to the people and events he envisions and this is rare: the reader is certain at all points that the author is not playing with the subject but writing from deep within it. A truly outstanding book is the result. James Dickey's A World Made of Fire is earthy, adroit, moving, an excellent novel by a writer of great promise and talent. Jesse Hill Ford Mark Childress is a young novelist who has written a memorable story out of the land and people of the Deep South that throughout its length is constantly intriguing with unexpected innovations. The ever-present undercurrent of mystical events will probably startle many readers by arousing and bringing forth unfamiliar emotions. Erskine Caldwell's A Wonderful and Powerful Novel Childress's debut in the world of fiction is a cause to be celebrated; he is the real thing. Pat Conroy's Mark Childress's new fashioned saga is full of delicate electricity and raw power. Barry Hannah: This is a damned fine story. There is more here than story though. This baby resonates. Mark Childress is a writer of almost uncanny stylistic ability and clear vision. His eye for detail is extraordinary. It makes you want to holler, Oh yeah, like a guy who's gotten religion at a riverside camp meeting. It's close, it's luxurious in its rightness, it fulfills the central demand of art to make us see more in what we always thought we were seeing. Stephen King's A Haunting First Novel: There is a clear light of genuine story-telling talent shining through it all. Library Journal: In an impressive debut, Childress has produced a spellbinding tale in the Southern gothic tradition. A writer of poetic acuity, he evokes the atmosphere of a small Southern town and brings its inhabitants to life through their colorful, softly cadenced speech. Childress's remarkable command of language, he uses imagery with sensuous skill, his sure sense of plot fueled by mysticism and mystery, and most of all, his beautifully nuanced depiction of Stella's coming of age will keep readers enthralled. Publishers Weekly: That rarest of finds, an unsentimental coming of age story. A World Made of Fire is also an engrossing mystery. Wrapped in its tale of voodoo and midnight rides is a detailed bestiary of human emotions and behaviors. San Francisco Chronicle: Mark Childress's first novel is a complex allegory of pagan magic and Christian retribution. Mr. Childress writes his haunting novel with poetic cadences in brief, intense chapters. He is an author of imagination. Stella's coming of age in grief and loneliness is drawn with graceful authenticity. Valerie Miner, The New York Times Book Review: A startlingly original first novel. Not only do a great many marvelous things happen, they do so in a time and place so untapped that Childress is able to claim the territory as his alone. He has marked himself at the tender age of twenty-six as a major new fictional voice.
