Red and yellow
Pink and green
Purple and orange and blue

I can sing a rainbow.
Sing a rainbow
Sing a rainbow,
too!

Monster

If there's a monster in your closet
And you don't know what to do Shrink up right behind him and yell a great big

BOO!

A little elf
Sat in a tree
Painting leaves
To throw at me.

Leaves of yellow
And leaves of red
Came tumbling down
About my head

A Year Of Poems:

Room 214: A Year in Poems Helen Frost, 2016-09-06 Engrossing tales from the fifth grade Every child is like A little world with ever changing weather Nights and mornings And somehow here we are Spinning through the universe together Unforgettable students in this fifth grade classroom reveal their private feelings about birth and death a missing bicycle and a first kiss as well as their thoughts about recess report cards fitting in and family Using a rich array of traditional poetic forms such as sonnets sestinas and acrostics Helen Frost interweaves the stories of the kids in Room 214 and their teacher A final section giving detailed analyses of the twenty two forms will be of special interest Everything Bright, Clear, and Beautiful: A Year of Poetry Rachel Devenish Ford, 2023-05-03 On March 20 2020 Rachel Devenish Ford started writing a poem a day and she continued with this practice for an entire year Her poetry is a gentle response to each day like an answer in a conversation Each one is a small contained thing translating world events family events or insect life into something a little easier to see to love The poems are loose dreamy and tidal Read sequentially they give a picture of one woman s life during a global pandemic They read like a landscape rising and falling in words and tone like the ocean like music They are welcoming and expansive a meal you have been invited to eat Devenish Ford s poetry has themes of womanhood life in her home in Thailand prayers and spirituality world events and racial justice motherhood and a strong love of beauty like a thread that moves through her words These poems will be familiar because of their humanity and their welcome feels like home a Year & other poems Jos Charles, 2022-03-15 From the celebrated author of feeld comes a formally commanding third collection dexterously recounting the survival of a period suffused with mourning Jos Charles s poems communicate with one another as neurons do sharp charged in language that predates language A scandal three cartons red in a hedge in each the thousand eye research of flies With acute lyricism she documents how a person endures seemingly relentless devastation California wildfires despotic legislation housing insecurity amid illusions of safety I wanted to believe Charles declares a corner a print leaned to a corner can save a people Still the house falls apart Death visits and lingers Belief proves again and again that belief alone is not enough Yet miraculously one might still manage to seek propelled by love or hope or sometimes only momentum something better There is a place where there are no futile longings no persistent institutional threats to one s life Poems might take us there tenderness too as long as we can manage to keep moving A current gives as much as it has writes Charles despite fire despite loss Harrowing and gorgeous a Year other poems is an astonishing new collection from a poet of unusual beauty and lyricism New Yorker A Year in Canada, and other poems. [With notes.] Ann Cuthbert Knight, 1816

The Voice of a Year ... with Other Poems William M'Comb, 1849 A School Year of Poems, 2005 A collection of short simple poems for children with teaching suggestions A Year in the Life of a Bus-Traveling Poet Marcia Mae Nelson Pedde, 2011-05-25 Over an entire year with her bus pass pens and paper in hand poet Marcia Mae Nelson Pedde travels by local transit all around her new hometown Quite simply she falls in love with the city of Victoria British Columbia Canada From elucidating the incredible beauty that is Victoria to revealing the simplicity and the elegance at its very heart Marcia expresses her admiration for both the people who call this place home and those who journey here from all over the globe to experience this City of Gardens Marcia records her own personal perceptions of it all as she also journeys ever deeper into herself In both verse and prose there is beauty poetry and play between these covers Come travel through the city that is Victoria Learn to love it one story and one poem at a time This book is available in paperback as well as Kindle and E Pub versions 52 Weeks Daniel W. Sconce, 2014-09-13 I have selected a years worth of poetry one per week for a year The subjects as varied as the seasons How my poems come into existence is revealed in the words Some may surprise others delight or confound Think of my poetry as entertainment It s what all my life as a poet has to offer Like Starlings in the Sky the words will flutter by A Year of Poetry Jamie Peter Scanlon, 2017-05-31 I woke up one morning in late 2015 and thought to myself I am going to write one poem per day every day in 2016 and then publish these in a book At the time I had not written any poetry but I like to set myself personal challenges often and enjoy seeing them through The early days were a challenge in that I was not sure if I should be following a format or if I was doing the right thing but as each day went by I found my groove more and more All of the poems are inspired by a number of things the goings on in my life the lives of others a lot are based on the Planet the seasons and the tides of the ocean and some are inspired by world events and how we who reside in this world reacted to these events Some of the early poems are more or less thoughts or even just short sentences but as you make your way through the book you will hopefully find your own groove with them as I did when crafting each No poem has a heading and I have done this as I do not want the heading to dictate what the poem is about Each poem is up to your own interpretation and each is designed to provoke thought and inspire your own mind to explore the words the feeling the energy and apply it to your own world I wanted to do something different with this book I wanted to set the book at a frequency so as to take you the reader on a journey back to center back home As with most of my ideas I awoke one day with a vision that the pages of the book follow the colours of the 12 chakras from the outer layer to the inner core The intent behind this being that the book itself and the idea behind it started out somewhere in the Universe and then made its way to me for me to channel the words onto paper to live on forever As you move through each poem and each page the intention is that you move closer and closer back to your inner being who you truly are at the core and that the colours as they also move assist you on your journey I d like to say thank you for purchasing this book and wish you all the best on your journey back home A Year of the Haiku James Maxfield, 2014-04 A Year of the Haiku features 365 new haiku poems by James Maxfield written as a year long experiment of composing one haiku poem each day during the year 2013 using only the words provided by Haikubes c a set of sixty three die pieces with five words on each piece The book includes a detailed preface about the author s process and experience writing this collection as well as a brief but scholarly introduction to haiku poetry suitable for the beginner or the experienced haiku poet
