

8 Ways to Study Better

You can prevent yourself from forgetting up to 80% of the material by reviewing a lecture or study content within 24 hours.

Instead of re-reading information again and again, close your eyes and recite as much as possible from memory. This can cement long-term memorization.

If available, take practice tests. One study showed that students retained 50% more of the material if they tested themselves after learning something.

Become more efficient when studying with flashcards by using the Leitner System. Repeat flashcards that you have difficulty with more often than those you have memorized.

Listening to classical music while studying may activate the parts of your brain that can help you pay attention and make predictions. It can also improve your mood.

Consider exercising before your next study session. It may help make your mind more alert, and give you the endurance you need to study for several hours.

When you study, focus on only studying. Multitasking can handicap learning as your attention is split between each task.

Instead of trying to memorize information, make connections between the material's ideas. This may help you remember more material in less time.
