Why Men Buy Sex Philip Birch, 2015-02-20

Sex work has been a contentious issue in a variety of ways throughout history socially morally ethically religiously and politically Traditionally noted as one of the oldest professions in the world sex work has commonly been demonised and is often viewed as a social disgrace While sex work involves both providers of sexual services most commonly women and purchasers of sexual services most commonly men providers have attracted the most social commentary Recent research shows that a limited number of studies have been conducted since 1990 concerning men who procure sexual services This book aims to help reset this balance In this book Philip Birch examines the procurement of female sexual services with a focus on the personal and social aspects of men who procure such exchanges and offers insight into the demographics amongst men who purchase sexual services alongside an analysis of the reasons why they purchase sex This book brings together existing literature with analyses of new data to develop a multi factor model reflecting men's procurement of sexual services and demonstrates the complexities surrounding the procurement of these sexual services in exchange for money. The book considers what contribution the understanding of the personal and social aspects of men who procure sexual services has on re-theorising the purchasing of sex in the 21st Century and will be of interest to academics and students involved in the study of criminology, criminal justice, social policy, law, sociology, sexuality and gender studies.

Emerging and Re-Emerging Organizational Features, Work Transitions and Occupational Risk Factors: The Good, the Bad, the Right. An Interdisciplinary Perspective Giulio Arcangeli, Gabriele Giorgi, Nicola Mucci, Jean-Luc Bernaud, Annamaria Di Fabio, 2019-03-07. The labor market is evolving very rapidly in recent years in Europe and worldwide. The fast and deep changes brought a brand new context of challenges and occupational risks to the attention of stakeholders. The current global financial crisis has increased the economic pressures on companies and they in turn have intensified the effects on employees particularly in terms of new competition contexts and a lot of stress and mental health issues. Concurrently, social, political and environmental problems generate underemployment, overqualification, overeducation, low wages for skilled workers and unmet demand for education. Consequently, both high skilled and low skilled immigrant workers are increasing. In addition, workplaces are continually changing in step with the introduction of new technologies, materials and work processes together with the changes in the labor market, the new forms of employment and the new work organizations. These changes lead to new opportunities for employees and employers but also to new risks or re-actualization of old organizational risks. According to the EU OSHA, the key points that describe the evolution that is currently ongoing in the world of work are globalization, the technical innovation and the aging population. On one hand, some older potential risks are reappearing in organizations: intensive fear and worries, organizational anxiety, boredom, physical violence, alienation, segregation, loneliness and isolation. On the other hand, re-emerging perceived organizational features seem vital for organizations and more important today than ever. Central constructs in the study of organizational behavior and organizational health such as perceived organizational support, commitment in organizational context, socialization processes, change capacity of organizations, perceived organizational justice, ergonomics and motivation nowadays seem increasingly important and renewed.
