Bourgeois Blues An American Memoir:

Bourgeois Blues Jake Lamar, 1992 A stunning memoir of a gifted young middle class black man and his struggle to succeed in white America Born in 1961 Jake Lamar was unable to escape a heritage of racism despite being well educated and accomplished Here Lamar a former associate editor for Time magazine illuminates the ironies of integration and America's history of prejudice

Black Enterprise, 1992-04 BLACK ENTERPRISE is the ultimate source for wealth creation for African American professionals entrepreneurs and corporate executives Every month BLACK ENTERPRISE delivers timely useful information on careers small business and personal finance

African American Journalists Calvin L. Hall, 2009-07-01 In the last decade of the 20th century during a time when African Americans were starting to take inventory of the gains of the civil rights movement and its effects on the lives of black professionals in the public sphere the memoirs of several journalists were published a number of which became national bestsellers African American Journalists examines select autobiographies written by African American journalists in order to explore the relationship between race class gender and journalism practice At the heart of this study is the contention that contemporary memoirs written by African American journalists are quasi political documents _manifestos written in reaction to and against the forces of institutionalized racism in the newsroom The memoirs featured in this study include Jill Nelson's Volunteer Slavery My Authentic Negro Experience Nathan McCall's Makes Me Wanna Holler A Young Black Man in America Jake Lamar's Bourgeois Blues An American Memoir and Patricia Raybon's My First White Friend Confessions on Race Love and Forgiveness The exploration of these works increases our understanding of the problems that members of other underrepresented groups may face in the workplace

PostNegritude Visual and Literary Culture Mark A. Reid, 1997-03-06 In the 1960s and 1970s the civil rights movement and other national and cultural movements fractured dominant paradigms of American identity and demanded a reformulation of American values and norms This book borrows the moral ethical and political purposes of these movements to show how film literature photography and television news broadcasts construct essentialist myths about race gender sexuality and nation It also examines how some visual and literary works and public reactions challenge these essentialist myths by exploring racial sexual and national anxieties Reid explains how artists such as filmmakers Julie Dash Spike Lee and Marlon Riggs photographers Rotimi Fani Kayode and Gordon Parks novelists John A Williams and Ayi Kwei Armah playwright Adrienne Kennedy and poet Bob Kaufman portray the fears of people in the grips of social and psychological change In each chapter he explores how an important social issue black feminism interracial intimacy biracial and homosexual identity and black erotica for example is presented in film literature and photography Throughout the book Reid's analysis is driven by a postNegritude understanding of race and cultural identity as a socially acquired and unfixed process rather than a biological fact By showing how visual and literary artists challenge hegemonies of power through the creative imagination he challenges monolithic and fixed notions of race ethnicity sexuality gender religion and cultural identity The Harvard

Guide to African-American History Evelyn Brooks Higginbotham, 2001 This massive guide sponsored by the W E B Du Bois Institute for Afro American Research at Harvard University and compiled by renowned experts offers a compendium of information and interpretation on over 500 years of black experience in America

Your Average Nigga Vershawn Ashanti Young, 2007-03-01 An engrossing autobiographical exploration of black masculinity as a mode of racial and verbal performance In Your Average Nigga Vershawn Ashanti Young disputes the belief that speaking Standard English and giving up Black English Vernacular helps black students succeed academically Young argues that this assumption not only exaggerates the differences between two compatible varieties of English but forces black males to choose between an education and their masculinity by choosing to act either white or black As one would expect from a scholar who is subject to the very circumstances he studies Young shares his own experiences as he exposes the factors that make black racial identity irreconcilable with literacy for blacks especially black males Drawing on a range of interdisciplinary scholarship in performance theory and African American literary and cultural studies Young shows that the linguistic conflict that exists between black and white language styles harms black students from the inner city the most If these students choose to speak Standard English they risk alienating themselves from their families and communities and if they choose to retain their customary speech and behavior they may isolate themselves from mainstream society Young argues that this conflict leaves blacks in the impossible position of either trying to be white or forever struggling to prove that they are black enough For men this also becomes an endless struggle to prove that they are masculine enough Young calls this constant effort to display proper masculine and racial identity the burden of racial performance Ultimately Young argues that racial and verbal performances are a burden because they cannot reduce the causes or effects of racism nor can they denaturalize supposedly fixed identity categories as many theorists contend On the contrary racial and verbal performances only reinscribe the essentialism that they are believed to subvert Scholars and teachers of rhetoric performance studies and African American studies will enjoy this insightful volume

A History of the African American Novel Valerie Babb, 2017-07-31 This History is intended for a broad audience seeking knowledge of how novels interact with and influence their cultural landscape Its interdisciplinary approach will appeal to those interested in novels and film graphic novels novels and popular culture transatlantic blackness and the interfacing of race class gender and aesthetics

Battling Bias Ruth Sidel, 1995-08-01 Politicians philosophers and academics have spent countless hours debating the issues of greatest concern on college campuses today multiculturalism political correctness race relations sexual politics and gender But what has been noticeably missing from their discussions are the voices of the students themselves Battling Bias is one of the first books to offer an analysis of their actions and reactions on their own college campuses In this work a wide variety of students from both public and private schools across the country share their pain and anger their concerns and experiences and the impact on their lives of the surge of conflicts so omnipresent on campuses today Sidel explores these issues against a backdrop of our current economic problems and polarities our increasingly diverse society and changing patterns of immigration She discusses the key problems for American higher education including who should have access to it and offers solutions This unique contribution to the continuing debate on the role of education in a democratic society should be required reading for anyone interested in the future of our schools and of our nation

Central Park East and Its Graduates David Bensman, 2015 In 1974 Central Park East Elementary School CPE in East Harlem opened its doors with a mission to provide inner city children with the finest educators and pedagogy available Instead of saying that the old neighborhood had to be torn down and students more rigidly tracked the reformers dared to ask the question What would happen if we gave inner city students the best education the country has to offer The results of this bottom up reform were astounding and to this day Central Park East is known as one of the most academically enriching schools in the United States David Bensman gives voice to the extraordinary young adults who emerged from poverty as a result of the powerful educational experiences they received at CPE A rich compilation of stories this account establishes the power of public schooling and the value of community With rich data Bensman carefully details for us what it means to be respectful thoughtful democratic and intellectually demanding what it means in short to be a good school This is the story of CPE but for anyone willing to see beyond the particulars it is also a map of possibility a guide to what our schools could be Mike Rose author Possible Lives The Promise of Public Education in America This is that rare thing a long term study of the graduates of a first rate inner city elementary school This is a school in which democracy and the life of the mind are inseparably intertwined Policymakers write that last sentence down one hundred times Joseph Featherstone Michigan State University Was the fame of CPE due to hype or yet another example of wishing trumping realities This conceptually and procedurally honest research effort clearly answers the question in the negative We have very good reason to be grateful to Debbie Meier her CPE colleagues and of course to Dr Bensman for this remarkable follow up study Seymour Sarason Professor Emeritus Yale University

Acting Black Sarah Susannah Willie, 2003-12-16 Sarah Willie asks What s it like to be black on campus For most Black students attending predominantly white universities it is a struggle Do you try to blend in Do you take a stand Do you end up acting as the token representative for your whole race And what about those students who attend predominantly black universities How do their experiences differ In Acting Black Sarah Willie interviews 55 African American alumnae of two universities comparable except that one is predominantly white Northwestern and one is predominantly black Howard What she discovers through their stories mirrored in her own college experience is that the college campus is in some cases the stage for an even more intense version of the racial issues played out beyond its walls The interviewees talk about acting white in some situations and acting black in others They treat race as many different things including a set of behaviours that they can choose to act out In Acting Black Willie situates the personal stories of her own experience and those of her interviewees within a timeline of black education in America and a review of university policy with suggestions for improvement for both black and white universities seeking to make their campuses truly multicultural In the tradition of The Agony of Education

Routledge 1996 Willie captures the painful dilemmas and ugly realities African Americans must face on campus
