McGibbon, 2014-06-18 This book is a collection of essays arising out of the OCyZealandiaOCOs Great WarOCO conference organised by the New Zealand Military History Committee in November 2003 In 32 essays by distinguished military historians from New Zealand and around the world various aspects of New ZealandOCOs involvement in World War One are discussed Subjects include the Pioneer Maori Battalion women who opposed the war the early years of the RSA Gallipoli the infantry on the Somme New ZealandOCOs involvement in the naval war prostitution and the New Zealand soldier the Home Defence religion in the First World War and the Armistice New ZealandOCOs Great War is a fascinating miscellany of informed comment on and insight into the event that did most to shape New Zealand as a nation Contributors include New ZealandOCOs own Chris Pugsley Glyn Harper Terry Kinloch Monty Soutar Megan Hutching Vincent Orange and Bronwyn Dalley as well as Peter Dennis Jeffrey Grey Jennifer Keene Jenny McLeod Pierre Purseigle Peter Stanley and Gary Sheffield from overseas Veterans with a Vision Serge Marc Durflinger, 2010-03-22 History has told us something about our war dead but very little about our war wounded Veterans with a Vision provides a vibrant poignant and very human history of

Canada s war blinded veterans and of the organization they founded in 1922 the Sir Arthur Pearson Association of War Blinded Serge Durflinger details the veterans process of civil re establishment physical and psychological rehabilitation and social and personal coping and describes their public advocacy for government pension entitlements job retraining and other social programs This book captures the spirit of perseverance that permeated the veterans community and highlights the accomplishments of the war blinded as advocates for all Canadian veterans and for all blind citizens The Fight for

History Tim Cook, 2020-09-08 NATIONAL BESTSELLER FINALIST FOR THE OTTAWA BOOK AWARDS A masterful telling of the way World War Two has been remembered forgotten and remade by Canada over seventy five years The Second World War shaped modern Canada It led to the country s emergence as a middle power on the world stage the rise of the welfare state industrialization urbanization and population growth After the war Canada increasingly turned toward the United States in matters of trade security and popular culture which then sparked a desire to strengthen Canadian nationalism from the threat of American hegemony The Fight for History examines how Canadians framed and reframed the war experience over time Just as the importance of the battle of Vimy Ridge to Canadians rose fell and rose again over a 100 year period the meaning of Canada s Second World War followed a similar pattern But the Second World War s relevance to Canada led to conflict between veterans and others in society more so than in the previous war as well as a more rapid diminishment of its significance By the end of the 20th century Canada s experiences in the war were largely framed as a series of disasters Canadians seemed to want to talk only of the defeats at Hong Kong and Dieppe or the racially driven policy of the forced relocation of Japanese Canadians In the history books and media there was little discussion of Canada's crucial role in the Battle of the Atlantic the success of its armies in Italy and other parts of Europe or the massive contribution of war materials made on the home front No other victorious nation underwent this bizarre reframing of the war remaking victories into defeats The Fight for History is about the efforts to restore a more balanced portrait of Canada's contribution in the global conflict This is the story of how Canada has talked about the war in the past how we tried to bury it and how it was restored This is the history of a constellation of changing ideas with many historical twists and turns and a series of fascinating actors and events

Our Union Jason Russell, 2011 The post war period witnessed dramatic changes in the lives of working class families Wages rose working hours were reduced pension plans and state social security measures offered greater protection against unemployment illness and old age the standard of living improved and women and members of immigrant communities entered the labour market in growing numbers Existing studies of the post war period have focused above all on unions at the national and international levels on the post war settlement including the impact of Fordism and on the chiefly economic issues surrounding collective bargaining while relatively scant attention has been paid to the role of the union local in daily working class experience In Our Union Jason Russell argues that the union local as an institution of working class organization was a key agent for the Canadian working class as it sought to create a new place for itself in the decades following World War II Using UAW CAW Local 27 a broad based union in London Ontario as a case study he offers a ground level look at union membership including some of the social and political agendas that informed union activities As he writes in the introduction This book is as much an outgrowth of years of rank and file union activism as it is the result of academic curiosity Drawing on interviews with former members of UAW CAW Local 27 as well as on archival sources Russell offers a narrative that will speak not only to labour historians but to the people about whom they write

On to Civvy Street Peter Neary, 2011-08-25 Detailing the ways in which the Canadian government built on existing programs for veterans Peter Neary identifies the key figures and events responsible for developing the orders and statutes that came to be known as the Veterans Charter creating the Department of Veterans Affairs and establishing sweeping new benefits for servicemen and women Comparing rehabilitation programs after the Second World War with those after the First World War Neary reveals the lasting importance of the country's new way of expressing its obligations to veterans He shows that the measures developed to reintegrate them into civilian society became essential building blocks for the Canadian welfare state and helped pave the way for the unprecedented prosperity of the 1950s A comprehensive study of a fundamental change in the relationship between government and citizens On to Civvy Street is also a timely reminder of the debt the country owes its veterans

Canada and the Second World War Geoffrey Hayes, Mike Bechthold, Matt Symes, 2013-02-01 Terry Copp's tireless teaching research and writing has challenged generations of Canadian veterans teachers and students to discover an informed memory of their country's role in the Second World War This collection drawn from the work of Terry's colleagues and former students considers Canada and the Second World War from a wealth of perspectives Social cultural and military historians address topics under five headings The Home Front The War of the Scientists The Mediterranean Theatre Normandy Northwest Europe and The Aftermath The questions considered are varied and provocative How did Canadian youth and First Nations peoples understand their wartime role What position did a Canadian scientist play in the Allied victory and in the peace Were veterans of the Mediterranean justified in thinking theirs was the neglected theatre How did the Canadians in Normandy overcome their opponents but not their historians Why was a Cambridge scholar attached to First Canadian Army to protect monuments And why did Canadians come to commemorate the Second World War in much the same way they commemorated the First The study of Canada in the Second World War continues to challenge confound and surprise In the questions it poses the evidence it considers and the conclusions it draws this important collection says much about the lasting influence of the work of Terry Copp Foreword by John Cleghorn Polarity, Patriotism, and Dissent in Great War Canada, 1914-1919 Brock Millman, 2016-04-06 Compared to the idea that Canada was a nation forged in victory on Vimy Ridge the reality of dissent and repression at home strikes a sour note Through censorship conscription and internment the government of Canada worked more ruthlessly than either Great Britain or the United States to suppress opposition to the war effort during the First World War Polarity Patriotism and Dissent in Great War Canada 1914 1919 examines the basis for those repressive policies Brock Millman an expert on wartime dissent in both the United Kingdom and Canada argues that Canadian policy was driven first and foremost by a fear that opposition to the war amongst French Canadians and immigrant communities would provoke social tensions and possibly even a vigilante backlash from the war s most fervent supporters in British Canada Highlighting the class and ethnic divisions which characterized public support for the war Polarity Patriotism and Dissent in Great War Canada 1914 1919 offers a broad and much needed reexamination of Canadian government policy on the home front
