

Think Feel Act Worksheet

Did you know the way we think affects how we feel and act? Our thoughts are very powerful. They make us decide how to feel. Our feelings then lead our actions. Our actions again decide how we think about the situation. Sometimes all we need to do is change the way we think about a situation to make us feel better and act wise!

Write any recent situation which did not make you feel good. Then fill the think-feel-act cycle below.

What was the first thought in your head?

How did it make you feel?

How did you act?

What was the situation? _____

Béatrice Longuenesse

Act Of Thinking:

I, Me, Mine Béatrice Longuenesse, 2016-12-22 Béatrice Longuenesse presents an original exploration of our understanding of ourselves and the way we talk about ourselves. In the first part of the book she discusses contemporary analyses of our use of I in language and thought and compares them to Kant's account of self-consciousness especially the type of self-consciousness expressed in the proposition I think. According to many contemporary philosophers necessarily any instance of our use of I is backed by our consciousness of our own body. For Kant in contrast I think just expresses our consciousness of being engaged in bringing rational unity into the contents of our mental states. In the second part of the book Longuenesse analyzes the details of Kant's view and argues that contemporary discussions in philosophy and psychology stand to benefit from Kant's insights into self-consciousness and the unity of consciousness. The third and final part of the book outlines similarities between Kant's view of the structure of mental life grounding our uses of I in I think and in the moral I ought to on the one hand and Freud's analysis of the organizations of mental processes he calls ego and superego on the other hand. Longuenesse argues that Freudian metapsychology offers a path to a naturalization of Kant's transcendental view of the mind. It offers a developmental account of the normative capacities that ground our uses of I which Kant thought could not be accounted for without appealing to a world of pure intelligences distinct from the empirical natural world of physical entities.

The Logical Alien Sofia Miguens, 2020-01-14 Is our logical form of thought merely one among many or must it be the form of thought as such? From Kant to Wittgenstein philosophers have wrestled with variants of this question. This volume brings together nine distinguished thinkers on the subject including James Conant author of the seminal paper The Search for Logically Alien Thought.

Inquiry Under Bounds David Thorstad, 2024-06-12 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence. It is free to read on the Oxford Academic platform and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations.

Herbert Simon held that the fundamental turn in the study of bounded rationality is the turn from substantive to procedural rationality. Theories of substantive rationality begin with normative questions about attitudes: what should we prefer, intend or believe? By contrast theories of procedural rationality begin with normative questions about processes of inquiry: how should we determine what to prefer, intend or believe? If Simon was right then the central task for theories of bounded rationality is to develop an account of rational inquiry for bounded agents. We need that: a theory of inquiry under bounds. Inquiry Under Bounds takes as its starting point a five point bounded rationality program inspired by recent work in cognitive science. To elaborate on and defend that program Thorstad argues we need an account of rational inquiry for bounded agents. Inquiry under bounds develops an account of rational inquiry for bounded agents: the reason responsiveness consequentialist view I use this account to clarify and defend key insights from the bounded tradition as well as to shed light on recent controversies in the epistemology of inquiry The Psychoanalytic Review ,1916 On the nature of thought, or, The act of thinking, and its connexion with a perspicuous sentence John Haslam,1835
