Weissberg,2019-01-22 Americans are increasingly alarmed over our nation s educational deficiencies Though anxieties about schooling are unending especially with public institutions these problems are more complex than institutional failure Expenditures for education have exploded and far exceed inflation and the rising costs of health care but academic achievement remains flat Many students are unable to graduate from high school let alone obtain a college degree And if they do make it to college they are often forced into remedial courses Why despite this fiscal extravagance are educational disappointments so widespread In Bad Students Not Bad Schools Robert Weissberg argues that the answer is something everybody knows to be true but is afraid to say in public America s educational woes too often reflect the demographic mix of students Schools today are filled with millions of youngsters too many of whom struggle with the English language or simply have mediocre intellectual ability Their lackluster performances are probably impervious to the current reform prescriptions regardless of the remedy s ideological derivation Making matters worse retention of students in school is embraced as a philosophy even if it impedes the learning of other students Weissberg argues that most of America s educational woes would vanish if indifferent troublesome students were permitted to leave when they had absorbed as much as they could learn they would quickly be replaced by learning hungry students including many new immigrants from other countries American education survives since we import highly intelligent technically skillful foreigners just as we import oil but this may not last forever When educational establishments get serious about world class mathematics and science and permit serious students to learn problems will dissolve Rewarding the smartest not spending fortunes in a futile quest to uplift the bottom should become official policy This book is a bracing reminder of the risks of political manipulation of education and argues that the measure of policy should be academic achievement Raising Children Who Think for the mselves (EasyRead Super Large

African-Centered Schooling in Theory and Practice Cheryl S. Ajirotutu,Diane S. Pollard,2000-04-30 Although schools with an African centered educational focus have existed for over 200 years they have most often been independent institutions Within the past few years the idea of incorporating an African and African American cultural orientation in public schools has been explored This exploration has proceeded in a number of ways in Baltimore MD African centered education was instituted in selected classrooms within an otherwise traditional school In Milwaukee and in other cities such as Detroit MI and Washington DC African centered programs have been implemented in selected schools The Eye of the Mentor: Hip to the Game Travis Corpening,2017-03-08 The Eye of the Mentor is not only a great read for every parent educator and counselor It is also a training tool used to assist teachers in their everyday classrooms through a solution focused approach The Eye of Mentor is a cultural awareness and staff development training used to help youth service providers teach reach and mentor beyond race class and gender Based on statistical data and years of experience working with youth from high risk populations the training helps prepare youth service providers to better communicate socially understand and address the behaviors many of their students may exhibit Jesus Didn't Fit In: Raising Nontraditional Children Janet L. Jackson, 2013-10-17 Why do so many adults today struggle trying to fit in when it comes to their careers and relationships Why do so many of us think we do not measure up Measure up to what and according to whose expectations Could these feelings stem from childhood Could parents inadvertently be instilling these thoughts in our children due to some unwritten rule of what is normal or traditional Jesus life portrays an excellent example of accepting oneself and others as unique children of God created for a purpose This book will encourage parents of children who have struggled with fitting in to embrace their uniqueness and trust Christ instead of the world
