Analysis Of Educational Challenges In The New South Africa:

An Analysis of Educational Challenges in the New South Africa Zandile P. Nkabinde, 1997-04 This book deals with current developments in black education in South Africa since the introduction of Bantu education in the beginning of the 1990s. During the period under discussion improvements have been made in black education. These improvements are partly due to the significant political changes currently taking place in South Africa that are supposed to mark the end of apartheid. Despite these developments much remains to be done in order to remedy the effects of Bantu education. In particular providing quality education in black schools will require innovative solutions. Proper planning, developing new teaching strategies, establishing practical educational goals and identifying and using available resources must be controlled and harnessed to a new social order. Collaboration and coordination of all professionals, particularly blacks, will be a necessity. The process of change requires black participation in finding solutions to their educational problems; this is one of the major challenges facing post-apartheid South Africa. It is evident that there are more challenges that the post-apartheid era will present. This book is aimed at providing tentative alternative solutions to black education. Education Reform in Societies in Transition, 2006-01-01 Framed against the background of educational change, this book proposes to examine the relationship between curriculum change, teacher professional development, policy reform and the processes of educational change. The main aims of the book are to: 1. focus on educational changes and reconstruction in transitional societies that have undergone political, economic and social change in the past two decades; 2. provide a forum for the dissemination of research on education reconstruction and reform in transitional societies; 3. disseminate ideas that enhance both the practical and theoretical aspects of educational changes in these societies; 4. further knowledge and understanding of emerging trends and issues in education in these societies; 5. reflect the realities of educational scenarios in each transitional society. The book presents an in-depth exploration of educational reconstruction in 15 transitional societies. In each chapter the authors have provided an overview of educational processes in the country, a distillation of education change or reform and or reconstruction in each transitional society. Collectively the chapters in the book have attempted to contribute to a better understanding of the educational system in respective countries by identifying the challenges and obstacles, the policy implications, the teacher professional development needs and curriculum reform efforts. Teachers, Democratisation and Educational Reform in Russia and South Africa Michelle Schweisfurth, 2002-01-01 How have primary school teachers in Russia and South Africa experienced educational reforms and changes in these new democracies? How have their perceptions and experiences been expressed in their classroom practice? This book, based on research conducted in the early years of democracy in these countries, attempts to link the macro world of policy with the micro world of teachers and classrooms. The theme of teachers' responses to policy reform is explored through international literature on the policy-practice interface and changes to education since the advent of democracy in the two national contexts are examined critically. Finally, using case study methodology the study brings together individual teachers perspectives biographies and practice The dilemmas they face in the process of change and how they try to resolve these reveals the complexity of the new educational agendas that have come with the transition to democracy
