Yes, there are no comments to add that we did not consider how to deal with the fact that we are in the same case. That thought did not occur to me. The primary reason for this is that we had a lot of work to do, and we had to get the story out of the book as soon as we could. We had to get the story out of the book as soon as we could.

transmitted by heat, water, light or by other agencies, but under many conditions the heat and water are the best and most common means of transmission. These agencies are known by the name of heat and water carriers, and are sometimes called transmission agents. The heat carrier is the hot air, hot water, steam, or oil, and the water carrier is the hot air, hot water, steam, or oil.
