Storytracking Sam D. Gill, 1998 Storytracking is a work of theory and application It is both a study of history and culture and of the academic issues accompanying the interpretation and observation of other peoples Sam Gill writes about Central Australia but more importantly he writes about the business of trying to live responsibly and decisively in a postmodern world faced with irreconcilable diversity and complexity with undeniable ambiguity and uncertainty International Law and Indigenous Peoples Joshua Castellino, Niamh Walsh, 2005-03-01 This volume a collection of essays by a variety of scholars in the field of indigenous rights originates from the Irish Centre for Human Rights at the National University of Ireland in Galway It highlights those instances in the work of international organizations where advances have been made concerning indigenous rights It also devotes attention to the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues to the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination and to a number of thematic issues in the field The human rights situations facing indigenous peoples in Australia Bangladesh Canada India Kenya Mexico Nicaragua Nigeria and South Africa are dealt with in separate chapters These surveys show a range of reactions to the multiple problems of discrimination or lack of proper responses as far as domestic legislation national implementation of the laws and national compliance with the applicable international standards are concerned Settler Colonialism Patrick Wolfe, 1999-01-01 This work analyzes the politics of anthropological knowledge from critical perspective that alters existing understandings of colonialism At the same time it produces insights into the history of anthropology Organized around an historical reconstruction of the great anthropological controversy over doctrines of virgin birth the book argues that the allegation a great deal about European colonial discourse and little if anything about indigenous beliefs By means of an Australian example the book shows not only that the alleged ignorance was an artifact of the anthropological theory that produced it but also that the anthropology was an artifact of the anthropological theory that produced it but also that the anthropology concerned has been closely tied into both the historical dispossession and the continuing oppression of native peoples The author explores the links between metropolitan anthropological theory and local colonial politics from the 19th century up to the present settler colonialism and the ideological and sexual regimes that characterize it Arretnete Present, Arretnete Past Diane J. Austin-Broos, 2009-08-01 The Arretnete people of Central Australia first encountered Europeans in the 1860s as groups of explorers pastoralists missionaries and laborers invaded their land During that time the Arretnete were the subject of intense curiosity and the earliest accounts of their lives beliefs and traditions were a seminal influence on European notions of the primitive The first

study to address the Arrernte s contemporary situation Arrernte Present Arrernte Past also documents the immense sociocultural changes they have experienced over the past hundred years Employing ethnographic and archival research Diane Austin Broos traces the history of the Arrernte as they have transitioned from a society of hunter gatherers to members of the Hermannsburg Mission community to their present marginalized position in the modern Australian economy While she concludes that these wrenching structural shifts led to the violence that now marks Arrernte communities she also brings to light the powerful acts of imagination that have sustained a continuing sense of Arrernte identity The ON-nibus Various Various,2009-12-01 If you missed the first eight titles in MUP s acclaimed Little Books on Big Themes series this is your chance to collect the whole set Released in time for Christmas the ON nibus brings together eight 10 000 word essays on the big themes in life by leading Australian thinkers Featured authors are Germaine Greer On Rage David Malouf On Experience Blanche d Alpuget On Longing Barrie Kosky On Ecstasy Don Watson On Indignation Gay Bilson On Digestion Malcolm Knox On Obsession and Anne Summers On Luck

Australian Pama-Nyungan languages: Lineages of early description Clara Stockigt,2024-10-08 A substantial proportion of what is discoverable about the structure of many Aboriginal languages spoken on the vast Australian continent before their decimation through colonial invasion is contained in nineteenth century grammars Many were written by fervent young missionaries who traversed the globe intent on describing the languages spoken by heathens whom they hoped to convert to Christianity Some of these documents written before Australian or international academic institutions expressed any interest in Aboriginal languages are the sole record of some of the hundreds of languages spoken by the first Australians and many are the most comprehensive These grammars resulted from prolonged engagement and exchange across a cultural and linguistic divide that is atypical of other early encounters between colonised and colonisers in Australia Although the Aboriginal contributors to the grammars are frequently unacknowledged and unnamed their agency is incontrovertible This history of the early description of Australian Aboriginal languages traces a developing understanding and ability to describe Australian morphosyntax Focus on grammatical structures that challenged the classically trained missionary grammarians the description of the case systems ergativity bound pronouns and processes of clause subordination identifies the provenance of analyses development of descriptive techniques and paths of intellectual descent The corpus of early grammatical description written between 1834 and 1910 is identified in Chapter 1 Chapter 2 discusses the philological methodology of retrieving data from these grammars Chapters 3 10 consider the grammars in an order determined both by chronology and by the region in which the languages were spoken since colonial borders regulated the development of the three schools of descriptive practice that are found to have developed in the pre academic era of Australian linguistic description

German Ethnography in Australia Nicolas Peterson,Anna Kenny,2017-09-21 The contribution of German ethnography to Australian anthropological scholarship on Aboriginal societies and cultures has been limited primarily because few people working in the field read German But it has also been neglected because its humanistic concerns with language religion and mythology contrasted with the mainstream British social anthropological tradition that prevailed in Australia until the late 1960s The advent of native title claims which require drawing on the earliest ethnography for any area together with an increase in research on rock art of the Kimberley region has stimulated interest in this German ethnography as have some recent book translations Even so several major bodies of ethnography such as the 13 volumes on the cultures of northeastern South Australia and the seven volumes on the Aranda of the Alice Springs region remain inaccessible along with many ethnographically rich articles and reports in mission archives In 18 chapters this book introduces and reviews the significance of this neglected work much of it by missionaries who first wrote on Australian Aboriginal cultures in the 1840s Almost all of these German speakers in particular the missionaries learnt an Aboriginal language in order to be able to document religious beliefs mythology and songs as a first step to conversion As a result they produced an enormously valuable body of work that will greatly enrich regional ethnographies

The Backroom Boys Graeme Sligo, 2013-10-05 The Backroom Boys is the remarkable but little known story of how a varied group of talented intellectuals drafted into the Australian Army in the dark days of 1942 provided high level policy advice to Australia's most senior soldier General Blamey and through him to the Government for the remainder of the war and beyond This band of academics lawyers and New Guinea patrol officers formed a unique military unit the Directorate of Research and Civil Affairs under the command of an eccentric and masterful string puller Alf Conlon The Directorate has been depicted as a haven for underemployed poets or meddlesome soldier politicians Based on wide ranging research this book reveals a fuller and more fascinating picture The fierce conflicts in the wartime bureaucracy between public servants and soldiers in which the Directorate provided critical support to Blamey went to the heart of military command accountability and the profession of arms The Directorate was a pioneer in developing approaches to military government in areas liberated by the combat troops as demonstrated by the Australian Army in New Guinea and Borneo in 1945-46 It is an issue of enduring importance The Directorate established the Australian School of Pacific Administration and had an important role in founding the Australian National University Its influence extended into post war Australia The Backroom Boys emphasises the personality of Colonel Alf Conlon as well as the talented men and women he recruited Above all this book shows how unexpectedly the Australian Army fostered a group of men and women who made a lasting contribution to the development of Australia in the decades after the war

Ceremony Men Jason M. Gibson, 2020-05-01 Winner of the 2022 W K Hancock Prize presented by the Australian Historical Association Shortlisted for the 2021 Prime Minister's Literary Awards in the Australian History Category presented by the Australian Prime Minister and Minister for the Arts Winner of the 2021 Council for Museum Anthropology Book Award presented by the Council for Museum Anthropology CMA a section of the American Anthropological Association By analyzing one of the world's greatest collections of Indigenous song myth and ceremony the collections of linguist anthropologist T G H Strehlow Ceremony Men demonstrates how inextricably intertwined ethnographic collections can become in complex historical and social relations In revealing his process to return an anthropological collection to Aboriginal communities in remote central Australia Jason M Gibson highlights the importance of personal rapport and collaborations in ethnographic exchange both past and present and demonstrates the ongoing importance of sociality relationship and orality when Indigenous peoples encounter museum collections today Combining forensic historical analysis with contemporary ethnographic research this book challenges the notion that anthropological archives will necessarily become authoritative or dominant statements on a people s cultural identity Instead Indigenous peoples will often interrogate and recontextualize this material with great dexterity as they work to reintegrate the documented into their present day social lives By theorizing the nature of the documenter documented relationships this book makes an important contribution to the simplistic postcolonial generalizations that dominate analyses of colonial interaction A story of local agency is uncovered that enriches our understanding of the human engagements that took and continue to take place within varying colonial relations of Australia
