Associational Life In African Cities Popular Responses To The Urban Crisis:

Associational Life in African Cities Arne Tostensen, Inge Tvedten, Mariken Vaa, 2001 The book contains 17 chapters with material from 13 African countries from Egypt to Swaziland and from Senegal to Kenya Most of the authors are young African academics The focus of the volume is the multitude of voluntary associations that has emerged in African cities in recent years In many cases they are a response to mounting poverty failing infrastructure and services and more generally weak or abdicating urban governments Some associations are new in other cases existing organizations are taking on new tasks Associations may be neighbourhood based others may be city wide and based on professional groupings or a shared ideology or religion Still others have an ethnic base Some of these organizations are engaged in both day to day matters of urban management and more long term urban development Urban associations challenge the monopoly of local and central government institutions Africa's Urban Revolution Doctor Edgar Pieterse, Susan Parnell, 2014-01-09 The facts of Africa's rapid urbanisation are startling By 2030 African cities will have grown by more than 350 million people and over half the continent's population will be urban Yet in the minds of policy makers scholars and much of the general public Africa remains a quintessentially rural place This lack of awareness and robust analysis means it is difficult to make a policy case for a more overtly urban agenda As a result there is across the continent insufficient urgency directed to responding to the challenges and opportunities associated with the world's last major wave of urbanisation Drawing on the expertise of scholars and practitioners associated with the African Centre for Cities and utilising a diverse array of case studies Africa's Urban Revolution provides a comprehensive insight into the key issues demographic cultural political technical environmental and economic surrounding African urbanisation Muslim Families in Global Senegal Beth Buggenhagen, 2012-02-06 A first rate ethnography of Muslim women in Dakar an extremely fine grained analysis of women's exchange networks Robert Launay Northwestern University Senegalese Murid migrants have circulated cargo and currency through official and unofficial networks in Africa and the world Muslim Families in Global Senegal focuses on trade and the transmission of enduring social value through cloth videos of life cycle rituals and religious offerings Highlighting women's participation in these networks and the financial strategies they rely on Beth Buggenhagen reveals the deep connections between economic profits and ritual and social authority Buggenhagen discovers that these strategies are not responses to a dispersed community in crisis but rather produce new roles wealth and worth for Senegalese women in all parts of the globe A lively insightful and important study of exchange practices between Senegal and a circuit of global trade The innovative focus is on the meanings not the social and economic functions of exchange Karen Tranberg Hansen Northwestern University While the author's focus is on the transformation in the role of women both within the family network and in the marketplace the book allows readers to better understand the impact of globalism on the citizens of Senegal Recommended Choice Civil Society and the Search for Development Alternatives in Cameroon Emmanuel Yenshu Vudo, 2008 Recent developments have witnessed the emergence of civil society as a major development actor whose potentials and capacity especially in Africa are often taken for granted and treated as limitless A critical assessment of some of these structures NGOs religious organisations trade unions home based associations and the youth and the legal and political context of the operation of civil society in Cameroon shows a popular effervescence that is visible in social development initiatives Although this would complement the state and free enterprise it is however often frustrated by the states suspicion in a context of rising social awareness and protest that is assimilated with political opposition or attempts at manipulation along partisan lines This book is a call to reform the framework of civil society and assess its components and roles in shaping the future of Africa Emmanuel Yenshu Vubo is a Senior Lecturer in Sociology He obtained his Doctorate from the University of Yaounde in 1991 and has served in several capacities at the University of Buea

Circular Migration in Zimbabwe & Contemporary Sub-Saharan Africa Deborah Helen Potts, 2010 The World Bank insists that the urban share of sub Saharan Africa s population is rapidly increasing this study shows that in many countries this is no longer true as migration strategies have adapted in response to economic and political change Circular migration whereby rural migrants do not remain permanently in town has particular significance in the academic literature on development and urbanization in Africa often having negative connotations in southern Africanist studies due to its links with an iniquitous migrant labour system Literature on other African regions often views circular migration more positively This book reviews the current evidence about circular migration and urbanization in sub Saharan Africa The author challenges the dominant view that rural urban migration continues unabated and shows that circular migration has continued and has adapted with faster out migration in the face of declining urban economic opportunities The empirical core of the book illustrates these trends through a detailed examination of the case of Zimbabwe based on the author s longstanding research on Harare The political and economic changes in Zimbabwe since the 1980s transformed Harare from one of the best African cities to live in over this period to one of the worst Harare citizens livelihoods exemplify in microcosm the central theme of the book the re invention of circulation and rural urban links in response to economic change Deborah Potts is a Senior Lecturer in the Geography Department of King s College London She works in the broad research field of urbanization and migration in sub Saharan Africa particularly southern Africa and has conducted research on these themes in Harare in Zimbabwe since 1985 Southern Africa South Africa Botswana Lesotho Swaziland Namibia and Zimbabwe University of Cape Town Press PB

Food and Place Pascale Joassart-Marcelli, Fernando J. Bosco, 2017-12-22 This text provides a comprehensive and critical exploration of food from the unique perspective of place It shows that our experiences with food are deeply influenced by their cultural social economic and political contexts The authors explore a wide range of questions such as Do GMOs threaten rural livelihoods Why don t we eat dogs Does your neighborhood make you fat Do community gardens encourage urban gentrification Can cheese save a local economy Why are gourmet burgers appearing on menus all over the world How do immigrants use food to create a sense of place Does mainstream nutrition stigmatize bodies Is the kitchen an oppressive place Can celebrity chefs change the food system Critically engaged and connected to current activist and academic debates Food and Place will be an essential resource for students across the social sciences

As Long as They Dont Bury Me Here Inge Tvedten,2011-12-29 An increasing number of poor Southern Africans live in poverty stricken urban slums or shantytowns Focusing on four shantytowns in the northern Namibian town of Oshakati this book analyses the coping strategies of the poorest sections of such populations The study is based on fieldwork conducted intermittently during a period of ten years It combines theories of political economic and cultural structuration and of the material and cultural basis for social relations of inclusion and exclusion as practise The poorest shanty dwellers are marginalised or excluded from vital urban and rural relationships and forced into social relations of poverty amongst themselves Having experienced long term processes of impoverishment the very poorest and most destitute in the shantytowns tend to give up improving their lives and act in ways that further undermine their position

Tanzania's Informal Economy Alexis Malefakis,2019-04-15 The market places and street corners of Dar es Salaam are home to a thriving informal economy of street vendors selling secondhand clothing and other goods These street vendors often live a precarious existence under pressure from state authorities and international markets In addition to these external pressures the experiences of such vendors are also shaped by a complex interplay of internal tensions rivalries and conflicting communal ties Such internal dynamics are a common part of informal economies around the world but have largely gone unrecognised and unexamined by academic scholarship Based on ethnographic fieldwork and extensive interviews with vendors living and working in Dar es Salaam Malefakis s book offers a nuanced portrait of those trying to carve out a livelihood in a major African city one in which ties of kinship and ethnicity are often viewed as a barrier rather than an aid to success In the process Malefakis provides an invaluable new perspective on the way in which co operation or lack thereof functions in an informal economy as well as insight into the lived experiences of those who depend on such economies

International Librarianship Constantia Constantinou,Michael J. Miller,Kenneth Schlesinger,2016-12-28 Demonstrates the impact of global education partnerships related to information access International librarianship stems from a desire to bring about political change transcultural understanding collaboration and mutual respect Historically librarians have been deeply involved with challenging issues of information sharing equity in information access and bridging the digital divide between different socioeconomic communities This collection draws on case studies from American librarians who traveled to Central America the Caribbean Central Europe Africa the Mediterranean and Asia to participate in librarian initiated and sponsored projects They united communities promoted religious and cultural tolerance developed new facilities or enhanced existing libraries and archives thereby enriching communities with resources professional expertise new partnerships and sustainable development practices International Librarianship offers insight into how these experiences might serve as templates and promote best practices in collaborations within the library profession in the United States and abroad and it also demonstrates how international experiences can enliven home institutions upon return With its concrete real world examples from librarians with substantial cultural and professional experiences this book is an outstanding resource for librarians aspiring to engage in librarianship across the borders It will also serve as a valuable text for graduate courses Tim J Zou University of Arkansas Libraries
