the categories of wild and domesticated animals Finally globalization and global climate change have led to the fragmentation of natural habitats blurring the old distinction between in situ and ex situ conservation In this book researchers at the cutting edge of their fields systematically examine the broad field of human animal relations dealing with wild liminal and domestic animals with conservation and zoos and with technologies such as biomimicry This book is timely in that it explores the new directions in which our thinking about the human animal relationship are developing While the target audience primarily consists of animal studies scholars coming from a wide range of disciplines including philosophy sociology psychology ethology literature and film studies many of the topics that are discussed have relevance beyond a purely theoretical one as such the book also aims to inspire for example biologists conservationists and zoo keepers to reflect on their relationship with animals

Beauchamp, David DeGrazia, 2020 This volume presents a framework of general principles for animal research ethics together with an analysis of the principles meaning and moral requirements Tom L Beauchamp and David DeGrazia s comprehensive framework addresses ethical requirements pertaining to societal benefit the most important consideration in justifying the harming of animals in research and features a thorough ethically defensible program of animal welfare The book also features commentaries on the framework of principles by eminent figures in animal research ethics from an array of relevant disciplines veterinary medicine biomedical research biology zoology comparative psychology primatology law and bioethics

Animal Rights Without Liberation Alasdair Cochrane, 2012 Alasdair Cochrane introduces an entirely new theory of animal rights grounded in their interests as sentient beings He then applies this theory to different and underexplored policy areas such as genetic engineering pet keeping indigenous hunting and religious slaughter In contrast to other proponents of animal rights Cochrane claims that because most sentient animals are not autonomous agents they have no intrinsic interest in liberty As such he argues that our obligations to animals lie in ending practices that cause their suffering and death and do not require the liberation of animals Cochrane s interest based rights approach weighs the interests of animals to determine which is sufficient to impose strict duties on humans In so doing Cochrane acknowledges that sentient animals have a clear and discernable right not to be made to suffer and not to be killed but he argues that they do not have a prima facie right to liberty Because most animals possess no interest in leading freely chosen lives humans have no moral obligation to liberate them Moving beyond theory to the practical aspects of applied ethics this pragmatic volume provides much needed perspective on the realities and responsibilities of the human animal relationship
