

THE EFFECT OF TEMPERATURE ON THE RATE OF ENZYME ACTIVITY

Temperature affects the rate of enzyme activity. Enzymes are proteins that act as biological catalysts, speeding up chemical reactions in the body. The rate of enzyme activity is affected by temperature, pH, and substrate concentration.

Enzymes are sensitive to temperature. If the temperature is too low, the enzyme will not work properly. If the temperature is too high, the enzyme will be denatured and lose its shape, which will also affect its ability to catalyze reactions.
