A Knowing Environment:

Environmental Knowing Gary T. Moore, Reginald G. Golledge, 1976 Tell Me Something I Don't Know: Dialogues in Epistemology Michael Veber, 2018-02-28 Tell Me Something I Don't Know is a collection of original dialogues in epistemology suitable for student readers but also of interest to experts. Familiar problems, theories and arguments are explored. Second order knowledge, epistemic closure, the preface paradox, skepticism, pragmatic encroachment, the Gettier problem and more. New ideas on each of these issues are also offered, defended and critiqued often in humorous and entertaining ways.

Shipping and the Environment Colin De La Rue, Charles B. Anderson, 2015-06-03 The first edition of this book was quickly acclaimed as the new leading text worldwide on the law and practice of pollution from ships. The second edition deals with a variety of developments since then in this fast moving subject: the Erika and the Prestige, changes in international law on maritime safety and compensation, latest decisions on claims for compensation, analysis of the SCOPIC regime, new material on ports of refuge, transboundary movements and pollution from offshore craft, latest cases and regulatory changes in the US and enlarged chapters on enforcement of laws and criminal sanctions. Like its predecessor, the second edition is superbly indexed and written clearly with the needs in mind of a wide international readership. Complexity Thinking in Physical Education Alan Ovens, Tim Hopper, Joy Butler, Joy I. Butler, 2013 This title focuses on complexity thinking in the context of physical education, enabling fresh ways of thinking about research, teaching, curriculum and learning. Written by a team of leading international physical education scholars, the book highlights how the considerable theoretical promise of complexity can be reflected in the actual policies, pedagogies and practices of physical education. Curriculum and Environmental Education Alan Reid, 2019-11-14 This collection traces the development and findings of curriculum studies of environmental education since the mid 1970s. Based on a virtual special issue of the Journal of Curriculum Studies, the volume identifies a series of curriculum challenges for and from environmental education. These include key questions in curriculum politics, planning and implementation, including which educative experiences should a curriculum foster and why, what the scope of a worthwhile curriculum should be and how it should be decided, organised and reworked, why distinctive curricula are provided to different groups of students and how curriculum should best be enacted and evaluated. The editor and contributors call for renewed attention to the possibilities for future directions in research in light of previously published work and innovations in scholarship. They also offer critical commentary on curriculum critique and crisis in environmental education through new material and previous studies from the journal by addressing three key themes: perspectives on curriculum and environment education, accounting for curriculum in environmental education and changes in curriculum for environmental education. End Of Knowing Fred Newman, Lois Holzman, 2006-04-10 First published in 1997. This volume discusses the notion of whether there is a limit to knowledge and One Way to Know, in addition to the suggestion that that we no longer need to know and whether our continued employment of knowing, cognition, epistemology is useful or useless and destructive of human life and development
