The Structure of Words at the Interfaces Heather Newell, Máire Noonan, Glyne Piggott, Lisa deMena Travis, 2017 This volume takes a variety of approaches to the question what is a word with particular emphasis on where in the grammar wordhood is determined Chapters in the book all start from the assumption that structures at above and below the word are built in the same derivational system there is no lexicalist grammatical subsystem dedicated to word building This type of framework foregrounds the difficulty in defining wordhood Questions such as whether there are restrictions on the size of structures that distinguish words from phrases or whether there are combinatory operations that are specific to one or the other are central to the debate In this respect chapters in the volume do not all agree Some propose wordhood to be limited to entities defined by syntactic heads while others propose that phrasal structure can be found within words Some propose that head movement and adjunction and Morphological Merger as its mirror image are the manner in which words are built while others propose that phrasal movements are crucial to determining the order of morphemes word internally All chapters point to the conclusion that the phonological domains that we call words are read off of the morphosyntactic structure in particular ways It is the study of this interface between the syntactic and phonological modules of Universal Grammar that underpins the discussion in this volume
