Alessandro Manzoni's The Count Of Carmagnola And Adelchis:

Alessandro Manzoni's The Count of Carmagnola and Adelchis Alessandro Manzoni, 2004-09-07 Now translator Federica Brunori Deigan presents lyrical English language versions of these two tragedies which taken together dramatize the first two epochs in Manzoni's history of Italy. The Betrothed completes the triptych illustrating the period of Spanish domination. Long unavailable in English, The Count of Carmagnola and Adelchis are distinguished by their dramatic power and thematic gravity. Manzoni considers the interactions of Christian morals and Machiavellian politics through deft psychological portraiture, ultimately revealing the course of history as a fabric woven by individuals free will according to a logical pattern of actions and reactions within the vaster providential plan that human eyes can only dimly perceive. BOOK JACKET The Modern Origins of the Early Middle Ages Ian Wood, 2013-09-27 The Early Middle Ages, which marked the end of the Roman Empire and the creation of the kingdoms of Western Europe, was a period central to the formation of modern Europe. This period has often been drawn into a series of discourses that are more concerned with the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth centuries than with the distant past. In The Modern Origins of the Early Middle Ages, Ian Wood explores how Western Europeans have looked back to the Middle Ages to discover their origins and the origins of their society. Using historical records and writings about the Fall of Rome and the Early Middle Ages, Wood reveals how these influenced modern Europe and the way in which the continent thought about itself. He asks and answers the important question: why is early medieval history or indeed any pre-modern history important? This volume promises to add to the debate on the significance of medieval history in the modern world. The Oxford Handbook of European Romanticism Paul Hamilton, 2016 The Oxford Handbook of European Romanticism focuses on the period beginning with the French Revolution and extending to the uprisings of 1848 across Europe. It brings together leading scholars in the field to examine the intellectual, literary, philosophical, and political elements of European Romanticism. The volume begins with a series of chapters examining key texts written by major writers in languages including French, German, Italian, Spanish, Russian, Hungarian, Greek, and Polish, amongst others. Then follows a second section based on the naturally interdisciplinary quality of Romanticism, encapsulated by the different discourses with which writers of the time set up an internal comparative dynamic. These chapters highlight the sense a discourse gives of being written knowledgeably against other pretenders to completeness or comprehensiveness of understanding and the Enlightenment encyclopaedic project. Discourses typically push their individual claims to resume European culture, collaborating and trying to assimilate each other in the process. The main examples featuring here are history, geography, drama, theology, language, geography, philosophy, political theory, the sciences, and the media. Each chapter offers original and individual interpretation of individual aspects of an inherently comparative world of individual writers and the discursive idioms to which they are historically subject. Together, the forty-one chapters provide a comprehensive and unique overview of European Romanticism. The Making of Medieval History G. A. Loud, Martial Staub, 2017 Essays on the discipline of medieval history and its practitioners from the late eighteenth century onwards A hugely interesting set of essays reflecting on a variety of ways in which medieval history has developed to the present time Scholarship of the highest standard deeply thought provoking and deeply engaged with the inheritances and future tasks of medieval academic history The collection will be essential reading for all medievalists John Arnold Professor of Medieval History University of Cambridge Medieval history is present in many forms in our world Monuments from the Middle Ages or inspired by them are a familiar feature of landscapes across Europe and beyond the period between the end of the Roman Empire in Western Europe and the Reformation and European expansion is an essential part of our imagination be it conveyed through literature the arts science fiction or even video games it is also commonly invoked in political debates Specialists in the field have played a major role in shaping modern perceptions of the era But little is known about the factors that have influenced them and their work The essays in this volume provide original insights into the fabric and dissemination of medieval history as a scholarly discipline from the late eighteenth century onwards The case studies range from the creation of specific images of the Middle Ages to the ways in which medievalists have dealt with European identity contributed to making and deconstructing myths and more specifically addressed questions relating to land and frontiers as well as to religion GRAHAM A LOUD is Professor of Medieval History at the University of Leeds MARTIAL STAUB is Professor of Medieval History at the University of Sheffield Contributors Christine Caldwell Ames Peter Biller Michael Borgolte Patrick Geary Richard Hitchcock Bernhard Jussen Joep Leerssen G A Loud Christian L bke Jinty Nelson Bastian Schl ter Martial Staub Ian Wood
