British Entrepreneurship In The Nineteenth Century Studies In Economic History:

British Entrepreneurship in the Nineteenth Century Peter Lester Payne, 1988 This is a completely revised edition of Payne's authoritative account first published in 1972 of the state of entrepreneurship in the nineteenth century in the light of recent research. It examines in depth the validity of the widely accepted belief that there occurred a deterioration in the quality of British entrepreneurship during the course of the nineteenth century. Routledge Library Editions: Education 1800-1926 Various Authors, 2022-07-30 This set of 14 volumes originally published between 1932 and 1995 amalgamates several topics on the history of education between the years 1800 and 1926 including women and education, education and the working class, and the history of universities in the United Kingdom. This set also includes titles that focus on key figures in education such as Samuel Wilderspin, Georg Kerschensteiner, and Edward Thring. This collection of books from some of the leading scholars in the field provides a comprehensive overview of the subject and will be of particular interest to students of history, education, and those undertaking teaching qualifications. A Concise Economic History of the World Rondo E. Cameron, 1993 This classic book offers a broad sweep of economic history from prehistoric times to the present and explores the disparity of wealth among nations. Now in its fourth edition, A Concise Economic History of the World includes expanded coverage of recent developments in the European Union, transition economies, and East Asia. Studies in Economic and Social History Michael Oliver, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2002. There are few students of European economic history who will not have come across the writings of Derek H. Aldcroft. His contributions to the field of economic and social history are vast and distinguish him as one of the most prolific economic historians of the 20th century. This volume honours Derek's contribution to the literature of economic and social history, and its contents reflect his wide-ranging interests, particularly on issues relating to transport history and the growth and structural change in economies. From transport in the Industrial Revolution to late 20th-century international financial architecture, the essays in this book, contributed by leading economic historians, are a tribute to a remarkable scholar. British entrepreneurship in the nineteenth century P.L. Payne, 1974 The Origins of the Liberal Welfare Reforms 1906-1914 J.R. Hay, 1983-11-11 This study examines the different approaches of social scientists and historians to the origins of social welfare legislation between 1906 and 1914. From this critical review, Mr Hay shows how the Liberal legislation can be seen as one example of a process common to advanced industrial societies. He outlines the fundamental economic, political, ideological, and institutional pressures for reform, analyses recent research on each aspect, and demonstrates the importance of the conversion of a significant proportion of the ruling elite to acceptance of the value of social legislation. The individual reforms are examined, and assessment made of the particular influences which were important in each case. Mr Hay concludes that the origins of the Liberal social legislation are not to be found in piecemeal remedies for specific social problems, nor in the vision of a few influential individuals. There were, he shows, competing proposals for social reform at the turn of the century. Part of the problem is to explain why the

Liberal solutions were adopted but he poses the more fundamental question Why were all the various proposals under discussion In answer he points out that Liberal social reform was only one part of a search for ways of preserving British society from internal and external challenges

Education and Industry in the Nineteenth Century Gordon Wynne Roderick, Michael Dawson Stephens, 1978

Iron and Steamship Archaeology Mike McCarthy, 2000 In the early 1980s the author was asked to investigate the newly discovered wreck of the Xantho an iron screw steamship active off the Australian coast during the period 1848 to 1872 and to develop a strategy to stop the looting that was occurring at the site This relatively straightforward assignment turned into a long term research program for applying maritime archaeology to the conservation of iron hulled wrecks

Where Did We Go Wrong? Gordon Roderick, Michael Stephens, 2016-11-10 This series of edited papers first published in 1981 examines Britain's industrial and commercial performance in the 19th and 20th centuries against the background of the development of state education The performance of certain key 19th century manufacturing industries are analysed and the reasons for their relative decline in the face of foreign competition is assessed This title will be of interest to students of history and education

Business History Kenneth. A. Tucker, 2013-12-19 First Published in 1977 This set of readings has been planned to demonstrate good examples of the writing of business history using a wide range of source material Furthermore the intention is to aid the development of critical perception and facilitate further analysis The overriding criterion in selection has therefore been the framework of structure conduct performance for the industry activity or firm The emphasis is on the technical and organisational relationships between the governing factor input and output conditions and the objectives and control mechanisms of the decision making personnel
