British Columbia by the Road Ben Bradley, 2017-06-07 In British Columbia by the Road Ben Bradley takes readers on an unprecedented journey through the history of roads highways and motoring in British Columbia's Interior a remote landscape composed of plateaus and interlocking valleys soaring mountains and treacherous passes Challenging the idea that the automobile offered travellers the freedom of the road and a view of unadulterated nature Bradley shows that an array of interested parties boosters businessmen conservationists and public servants manipulated what drivers and passengers could and should view from the road When it came to roads and highways planners and builders had two concerns grading or paving a way through the wilderness and opening pathways to new parks and historic sites They understood that the development of a modern road network would lead to new ways of perceiving BC and its environment Although cars and roads promised freedom they offered drivers a curated view of the landscape that shaped the province's image in the eyes of residents and visitors alike Vancouver Centennial Bibliography Frances M. Woodward, Vancouver Historical Society, 1986

Time Travel Alan Gordon, 2016-04-15 In the 1960s Canadians could step through time to eighteenth century trading posts or nineteenth century pioneer towns These living history museums promised authentic reconstructions of the past but as Time Travel shows they revealed more about mid twentieth century interests and perceptions of history than they reflected historical fact An appetite for commercial tourism led to the rise of living history museums They became important components of economic growth especially as part of government policy to promote regional economic diversity and employment Alan Gordon explores how these museums were shaped by post war pressures personality conflicts funding challenges and the need to balance education and entertainment Ultimately the rise of the living history museum is linked to the struggle to establish a pan Canadian identity in the context of multiculturalism competing anglophone and francophone nationalisms First Nations resistance and the growth of the state A Wilder West Mary-Ellen Kelm, 2012-07-01 The rodeo cowboy is one of the most evocative images of the Wild West The master of the frontier he is renowned for his masculinity toughness and skill A Wilder West returns to rodeo's small town roots to explore how rodeo simultaneously embodies and subverts our traditional understandings of power relations between man and nature women and men settlers and Aboriginal peoples An important contact zone a chaotic and unpredictable place of encounter rodeo has challenged expected social hierarchies bringing people together across racial and gender divides to create friendships rivalries and unexpected intimacies At the rodeo Aboriginal riders became local heroes and rodeo queens spoke their minds A Wilder West complicates the idea of western Canada as a white man's country and shows how rural rodeos have been communities in which different rules applied Lavishly illustrated this creative history will change the way we see the West's most controversial sport Birds of British Columbia, Volume 3 Wayne Campbell, Neil K. Dawe, Ian McTaggart-Cowan, John M. Cooper, Gary W. Kaiser, Michael C.E. McNall, G. E. John Smith, 2007-10-01 British Columbia has one of the richest
