British Museum A Case Study In Architec:

The British Museum: a Case-study in Architectural Politics Joseph Mordaunt Crook, 1973 A Companion to Museum Studies Sharon Macdonald, 2011-08-24 A Companion to Museum Studies captures the multidisciplinary approach to the study of the development roles and significance of museums in contemporary society Collects first rate original essays by leading figures from a range of disciplines and theoretical stances including anthropology art history history literature sociology cultural studies and museum studies Examines the complexity of the museum from cultural political curatorial historical and representational perspectives Covers traditional subjects such as space display buildings objects and collecting and more contemporary challenges such as visiting commerce community and experimental exhibition forms Books, Buildings and Social Engineering Alistair Black, Simon Pepper, Kaye Bagshaw, 2017-05-15 Public libraries have strangely never been the subject of an extensive design history Consequently this important and comprehensive book represents a ground breaking socio architectural study of pre 1939 public library buildings A surprisingly high proportion of these urban civic buildings remain intact and present an increasingly difficult architectural problem for many communities The book thus includes a study of what is happening to these historic libraries now and proposes that knowledge of their origins and early development can help build an understanding of how best to handle their future The Public Art Museum in Nineteenth Century Britain Christopher Whitehead, 2017-03-02 During the mid nineteenth century a debate arose over the form and functions of the public art museum in Britain Various occurrences caused new debates in Parliament and in the press about the purposes of the public museum which checked the relative complacency with which London's national collections had hitherto been run This book examines these debates and their influence on the development of professionalism within the museum trends in collecting and tendencies in museum architecture and decoration In so doing it accounts for the general development of the London museums between 1850 and 1880 with particular reference to the National Gallery This involves analysis of art display and its relations with art historiography alongside institutional and architectural developments at the British Museum the South Kensington Museum and the National Gallery It is argued that the underpinning factor in all of these developments was a reformulation of the public museum's mission which was in turn related to the electoral reform movement In a potential situation of mass enfranchisement the masses should be well educated the museum was openly identified as a useful institution in this sense This consideration also influenced approaches to collecting and arranging artworks and to configuring their architectural setting within the museum allowing for displays to be instructive in specific ways Dissatisfaction with the British Museum and National Gallery buildings and their locations led to proposals to move the national collections possibly merging and redefining them Again the socio political usefulness of the museum was key in determining where the national collections should be housed and in what form of building This rich debate is analysed with full references to the various forums in and out of Parliament Part one covers these issues in a thematic structure examining all of the national collections their interrelationships and their gradual development of discrete yet sometimes arbitrary museological territories Part two focuses on the individual case of the National Gallery observing how museological debate was brought to bear on the development of a specific institution Every architectural development and redisplay is closely analysed in order to gauge the extent to which the products of debate were carried through into practice and to comprehend the reasons why no museological grand project emerged in London

Modern Architecture Through Case Studies

1945 to 1990 Peter Blundell Jones, Eamonn Canniffe, 2012-08-21 Once again new interpretations are presented of some of the most famous architecture of the period Work by lesser known architects whose influence and role have been overlooked by conventional histories of the subject is discussed The case study structure allows each example to be discussed and used as a springboard to explore different theoretical approaches Filled with beautiful photographs plans and architect's drawings this is a clear and accessible discussion on a period of architecture that engages many questions still under debate in architecture today

The Delirious Museum Calum Storrie, 2007-10-24 The Delirious Museum is a remarkable illuminating work which presents an original view of the idea of the museum in the twenty first century re imagining the possibilities for museums and their displays and re examining the blurred boundaries between museums and the cities around them On his quest for the Delirious Museum Storrie takes a journey that begins in the Louvre and continues through Paris London Los Angeles and Las Vegas He encounters on his way the museum architecture of John Soane Carlo Scarpa and Daniel Libeskind the exhibitions of El Lissitzky and of Frederick Kiesler and the work of artists as varied as Marcel Duchamp Andy Warhol Marcel Broodthaers Sophie Calle and Mark Dion

Brain of the Earth's Body

Donald Preziosi, 2003 What begins as a meditation on the museum by one of the world's leading art historians becomes in this book a far reaching critical examination of how art history and museums have guided and controlled not only the way we look at art but the ways in which we understand modernity itself Originally delivered as the 2001 Slade Lectures in the Fine Arts at Oxford University the book makes its deeply complex argument remarkably accessible and powerfully clear Concentrating on a period from the beginning of the nineteenth century to the beginning of the twentieth Donald Preziosi presents case studies of major institutions that he argues have defined and are still defining the possible limits of museological and art historical theory and practice These include Sir John Soane's Museum in London preserved in its 1837 state the Crystal Palace Exhibition of 1851 and four museums founded by Europeans in Egypt in the late nineteenth century which divided up that country's history into ethnically marked aesthetic hierarchies and genealogies that accorded with Europe's construction of itself as the present of the world's past and the brain of the earth's body Through this epistemological and institutional archaeology Preziosi unearths the outlines of the more radical Enlightenment project that academic art history professional museology and art criticism have rendered marginal or invisible Finally he sketches a new theory about art artifice and visual signification in the cracks and around the margins of the secular theologisms of the globalized imperial capital called modernity Addressed equally to the theoretical and philosophical foundations of art history museology history and anthropology this book goes to the heart of recent debates about race ethnicity nationality colonialism and multiculturalisms and to the very foundations of modernity and modern modes of knowledge produ The British Museum Crook,1972 Compelling Visuality Claire J. Farago,Robert Zwijnenberg,2003 Wealth and the Built Environment Emilio José García,Brenda Vale,2025-04-26 The need to address global environmental problems is urgent The United Nations 17 Sustainable Development Goals SDGs cover a wide range of global concerns from poverty hunger and gender equity to justice and climate action Concerningly the SDGs still have faith in economic growth and technological innovation as the means of fixing all global concerns including climate change What is not questioned is whether solving development and sustainability problems through economic growth for the accumulation of wealth for the few has led to many of the current unequal development and environmental problems If unfair growth and wealth accumulation have been part of the problem how can they be part of the solution The problem with the SDGs is that their fulfilment relies on wealth creation without the fundamental concomitant of wealth redistribution The one common driver of change affecting both sustainability and development that has not been included in the SDGs is wealth the central focus of this book SDG 11 sustainable cities and communities presents a further paradox unless the issue of wealth and its fair distribution is grasped Cities are the places where wealth is generated but are also places where only a minority are wealthy The wealth generated in cities leads to higher consumption of resources higher emissions and higher disparities and inequalities However any version of a sustainable future will happen in the built environment made according to current ideals like the present belief in overcoming all humanity s problems by becoming wealthier A fundamental assumption of this book is that the first step toward a fairer habitat that can maintained with the resources available is only possible if we stop designing cities and buildings as if everyone were wealthy or had to become wealthy To achieve this goal it is essential to identify and raise awareness of the impact of wealth to question how the myths about the advantages of wealth were built where they come from what shape they take in the built environment and who benefits from them
