

BILLY COBHAM

The background of the entire image is a dark, textured field. It is populated with a variety of organic, cell-like structures. These structures are primarily circular or oval in shape. Many of these shapes have a dark, almost black center, surrounded by a lighter, more complex ring. The colors of these rings and the spaces between the structures are predominantly shades of deep blue, indigo, and purple. Interspersed among these darker forms are several bright, glowing yellow and gold-colored shapes, some of which appear as thick, swirling lines or as distinct, bright spots. The overall effect is one of a complex, interconnected network, possibly representing a microscopic view of cells, a neural network, or a complex circuit board.
