

ARTIFICIAL RAIN COMETH!

WHAT IS ARTIFICIAL RAIN?

It is achieved by cloud seeding, a technology that alters weather to help induce rain in drought-affected areas or to clean air.

HOW IT WORKS

Rockets and aircraft are deployed to inject silver iodide or similar substance into the atmosphere to mimic ice particles

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

The process makes the cloud more efficient at generating ice crystals that either fall as snowflakes or melt to produce raindrops, depending on temperatures in and around the cloud. This technique is also used to disperse fog banks near airport.

Physics of the marine atmosphere Roll, 1965-01-01 Physics of the marine atmosphere Physics of the Marine Atmosphere H. U. Roll, 2016-06-03 International Geophysics Series Volume 7 Physics of the Marine Atmosphere discusses the influence exerted by the sea surface on the properties of the atmosphere as well as on atmospheric processes of small and medium scale This book is composed of six chapters that specifically consider the exchange occurring in the boundary layer between ocean and atmosphere The opening chapters deal with the particular difficulties inherent in meteorological measurements at sea The remaining chapters describe the flow characteristics thermodynamics chemistry electricity and radioactivity of the marine atmosphere Emphasis is placed on the physical approach rather than on geographical aspects and those of application A discussion of the empirical facts is followed by theoretical interpretation Geophysicists theoreticians and scientists of the allied fields will find this book invaluable Research and Development Progress Report United States. Office of Saline Water, 1965 Atmosphere, Ocean and Climate Dynamics John Marshall, R. Alan Plumb, 1963-01-01 For advanced undergraduate and beginning graduate students in atmospheric oceanic and climate science Atmosphere Ocean and Climate Dynamics is an introductory textbook on the circulations of the atmosphere and ocean and their interaction with an emphasis on global scales It will give students a good grasp of what the atmosphere and oceans look like on the large scale and why they look that way The role of the oceans in climate and paleoclimate is also discussed The combination of observations theory and accompanying illustrative laboratory experiments sets this text apart by making it accessible to students with no prior training in meteorology or oceanography Written at a mathematical level that is appealing for undergraduates and beginning graduate students Provides a useful educational tool through a combination of observations and laboratory demonstrations which can be viewed over the web Contains instructions on how to reproduce the simple but informative laboratory experiments Includes copious problems with sample answers to help students learn the material

Chemistry of the Lower Atmosphere S. Rasool, 2012-12-06 About three years ago Catherine de Berg and I published a short article in Nature in which we attempted to explain why the chemistry of the atmosphere of the Earth is today so completely different from that of our two neighboring planets Mars and Venus Our atmosphere is composed mainly of N₂ and O with traces of H₂ CO₂ etc while the atmospheres of both Mars and Venus are almost entirely made up of CO₂ Also the Earth appears to be the only one of the three planets which has oceans of liquid water on the surface Since the presence of liquid water on Earth is probably an essential requirement for life to have originated and evolved to its present state the question of the apparent absence of liquid water on Mars and Venus suddenly acquires significant proportions In our paper in Nature and later in a more detailed discussion of the subject Planetary Atmospheres in Exobiology edited by C Ponnamperuma North Holland Publishing Co we tried to describe why we believe that in the early history of the solar system all the terrestrial planets lost the atmospheres of H₂ and He which they had acquired from the solar nebula at the time of their formation These planets completely devoid of atmos pheres like the Moon today started accumulating new gases which were exhumed from the interior by the commencement of volcanic activity Advances in Geophysics ,1958-01-01
