Abo Incompatible Kidney Transplantation:

Accommodation in ABO-incompatible Kidney Transplantation Kota Takahashi,2004 For most people today ABO incompatible kidney transplantation still carries the image of pronounced hyperacute rejection However with modern immunosuppressive therapy hyperacute rejection will not occur within the first 24 hours Clinical statistics in Japan show 3 cases of hyperacute rejection but all of these occurred because the recipient was mistakenly transfused during surgery with frozen plasma of the same blood type Delayed hyperacute rejection occurring after the first 24 hours is most likely to develop within 1 week post transplant It does not manifest suddenly but several years after transplantation This means that humoral rejection ceases to occur after accommodation has been established The use of evidence based medicine to correct misconceptions in this area has proven to be meaningful The publication of these data has made it possible to break down fixed thinking and prejudices previously regarded as fact in relation to ABO incompatible kidney transplantation It is believed that this will prove to be a major contribution in the future development of immunology As these data are provided as a common resource for physicians performing transplantation procedures it has encouraged more widespread implementation of organ transplantation

ABO-incompatible Organ Transplantation Yi Wang,2019-02-18 This book introduces the clinical application of ABO incompatible transplantation In the first part it starts with the history blood group antigen antibody associated with ABO blood type pathophysiology and pathology and related knowledge In the second part it covers clinical experience sharing of ABO incompatible of heart liver lung and kidney transplantation It provides a systematic methodologies and protocols

ABO-incompatible Kidney Transplantation Kōta Takahashi,2001 ABO incompatible kidney transplantation is indicated for patients for whom no ABO identical or minor mismatch donor is available Since the author and his colleagues performed the first ABO incompatible kidney transplantation in Japan in 1989 400 such transplantations have been performed in 41 hospitals in Japan and this practice has contributed to a number of new developments One is a clearer and more suitable model for conceptualising the mechanism of humoral immune response which enables identification of antigens and antibodies and a therapeutic strategy against rejection The rejection mechanisms are discussed not only from the perspective of immunology but also viewed from different angles including anatomy microscopic and macroscopic pathology molecular biology and haematology Immunosuppressive therapy is discussed divided in four categories extracorporeal immunomodulation with removal of humoral antibodies drug therapy to suppress cellular immunity splenectomy and anticoagulation therapy Surgical procedures for kidney transplantation and splenectomy are treated including discussion of the best timing for the latter The book gives an overview of the current status with statistics and results of questionnaires and ends with discussions of 17 case histories

ABO-Incompatible Kidney Transplantation Kota Takahashi,2008-07-01 Humoral Immunity in Kidney Transplantation Giuseppe Remuzzi,Stefano Chiaramonte,N. Perico,C. Ronco,2009 As recent advances in immunosuppression and apheresis techniques have opened new avenues for the management of humoral immunity interest in ABO incompatible kidney transplantation has been renewed Moreover new screening techniques such as the single antigen bead assay allow for the detection and definition of very low levels of alloantibody which has had a positive impact on the treatment possibilities in highly sensitized adult patients with end stage renal disease But despite these advances a theoretical rationale is still missing for both the decision to transplant a sensitized patient and the classification of the transplant as low medium or high risk There is also no uniform approach with regard to pre transplant desensitization protocols and it is unclear whether particular post transplant immunosuppression will be required and what would be the best combination treatment Last but not least the frequency and actual clinical impact of alloantibodies developed after transplantation on short and long term graft survival need to be ascertained Aimed especially at the clinician this publication presents recent insights in the characterization and pathogenetic role of humoral immunity in chronic allograft injury and investigates the perspectives for novel immunosuppressive therapies to control antibody production after transplantation

Current Concepts in Kidney Transplantation Sandip Kapur,Cheguevara Afaneh,Meredith Aull,2012-12-19 Despite significant accomplishments to date kidney transplantation is a relatively young field in medicine Due to the armamentarium of agents available to effectively suppress the immune system the past decade has seen a shift in focus from prevention of rejection to a focus on extending the life of the allograft and novel strategies to increase the organ donor pool This book covers basic concepts in kidney transplantation while also addressing ways to manage kidney transplant recipients in order to maximize patient and graft survival In addition novel concepts to increase organ availability are addressed including kidney paired donation and single site laparoendoscopic donor nephrectomy for living donor kidney transplantation and utilization of marginal hepatitis C positive and older donor organs to increase deceased donor transplant opportunities
