Prison Health Care Ronald L. Gerdner, 1990 Current Bibliographies in Medicine, 1988 Aging Criminals Neal Shover, 1985-11 What happens to criminals when they get old Why do some go straight This book looks at the lives of 50 male ex convicts over the age of 50 to identify the social and psychological factors that may have contributed to decreasing their criminal conduct Most of these subjects began their criminal involvement in adolescence and all committed property offenses 36 could be typed as unsuccessful criminals in that they viewed crime as a means of livelihood but actually had small financial reward and were frequently incarcerated A majority of these men experienced a process of stock taking usually in their thirties and forties that led to a transformation of orientational contingencies This transformation usually involved the realization that crime was an unproductive enterprise new perspectives on the self growing awareness of time changing aspirations and goals and a growing sense of tiredness Changes in the values they ascribed to intimate relations with others and to employment also contributed to lessening criminal involvement over time These changes cumulatively resulted in changes in the decisionmaking processes that precede crime benefits were seen as illusory or less important and perceived risks and losses increased Further with successful performance of nondeviant roles and the passage of time the salience of the ex convict personal identity decreased and presented few interactional difficulties for these men Case studies and extensive quotations illustrate these changes Understanding Deradicalization Daniel Koehler, 2016-11-10 first comprehensive guide to the theory and practice of de radicalization offers a coherent typology and methodology regarding the effects and concepts of de radicalization programs will be of much interest to students of deradicalisation counter terrorism criminology radical Islam security studies and IR Sociological Abstracts Leo P.
