Women's Labor in the Global Economy Sharon Harley, 2007-06-05 Globalization is not a new phenomenon women throughout the world have been dealing with the circumstances and consequences of an international economy long before the advent of the transnational corporate conglomerate However in a mercenary example of the tried cliché the more things change the more they stay the same women particularly those of color continue to be relegated to the lowest rung of the occupational ladder where their indispensable contributions to global market capitalism are downplayed or invalidated completely through the perpetuation of stereotypes and the denial of access to better job opportunities and resources How women of color around the world adapt and challenge the economic political and social effects of globalization is the subject of this broad minded and incisive anthology From Mexico Jamaica Ghana Zimbabwe and Sri Lanka to immigrant and non immigrant communities in the United States the women documented in these essays are agricultural and factory workers artists and entrepreneurs mothers and activists Their stories bear stark witness to how globalization continues to develop new sites and forms of exploitation while its apparent victims continue to be women men and children of color

Bridging Mobilities M. Nyamnjoh, 2013-12-06 This is a study on the creative appropriation of Information and Communication Technologies ICTs by mobile Africans and the communities to which they belong home and away With a focus on Cameroonian migrants from Pinyin and Mankon who are currently living in Cape Town and the Netherlands this book examines the workings of the social fabric of mobile communities It sheds light on how these communities are crafting lives for themselves in the host country and simultaneously linking up with the home country thanks to advances in ICTs and road and air transport ICTs and mobilities have complemented social relational interaction and provide migrants today with opportunities to partake in cultural practices that express their Pinyin ness and Mankon ness Pinyin and Mankon migrants are still as rooted in the past as they are in the present They were born into a community with its own sense of home moral ethos and cultural pride but live in a context of accelerated ICTs and mobility that is fast changing the way they live their lives Drawing on this detailed ethnographic case study and related literature Henrietta Nyamnjoh argues that while ICTs continue to enhance mobility for those who move and for those who stay put they have become inextricably linked in forging networks and reconfiguring existing ones Contrary to earlier studies that predicted radical social change and the passing of traditional societies in the face of new technologies ICTs have been appropriated to enhance the workings of existing social relations and ways of life while simultaneously pointing to new directions in ever more creative and innovative ways
