Battles Over Nature Vasant K. Saberwal, Mahesh Rangarajan, 2005 Forests People and Power Oliver Springate-Baginski, Piers Blaikie, 2013-06-17 With tens of millions of hectares and hundreds of millions of lives in the balance the debate over who should control South Asias forests is of tremendous political significance This book provides an insightful and thorough assessment of important forest management transitions currently underway MARK POFFENBERGER EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF COMMUNITY FORESTRY INTERNATIONAL The contributions in this volume not only breathe life into the fi eld of writing and analysis related to forests they do so on the strength of extraordinarily insightful research Kudos to Springate Baginski and Blaikie for providing us with a set of thoroughly researched provocative studies that should be required reading not only for those interested in community forestry in south Asia but in resource governance anywhere ARUN AGRAWAL ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF NATURAL RESOURCES it challenges our assumptions of the benefits of participatory forest management and the role of forestry in poverty reduction It should be of interest to policy makers and to all those who have been involved with the struggle of transforming forestry over the decades DR MARY HOBLEY HOBLEY SHIELDS ASSOCIATES NATURAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT AND PLANNING CONSULTANCY A rare combination of extensive field study social science insights and policy studies will be of immense value DR N C SAXENA MEMBER OF NATIONAL ADVISORY COUNCIL GOVERNMENT OF INDIA In recent decades participatory approaches to forest management have been introduced around the world This book assesses their implementation in the highly politicized environments of India and Nepal The authors critically examine the policy implementation processes and causal factors affecting livelihood impacts Considering narratives and field practice with data from over 60 study villages and over 1000 household interviews the book demonstrates why particular field outcomes have occurred and why policy reform often proves so difficult Research findings on which the book is based are already influencing policy in India and Nepal and the research and analysis have great relevance to forestry management in a wide range of countries Published with DFID Global Interdependence Akira Iriye, 2014-01-14 Global Interdependence provides a new account of world history from the end of World War II to the present an era when transnational communities began to challenge the long domination of the nation state In this single volume survey leading scholars elucidate the political economic cultural and environmental forces that have shaped the planet in the past sixty years Offering fresh insight into international politics since 1945 Wilfried Loth examines how miscalculations by both the United States and the Soviet Union brought about a Cold War conflict that was not necessarily inevitable Thomas Zeiler explains how American free market principles spurred the creation of an entirely new economic order a global system in which goods and money flowed across national borders at an unprecedented rate fueling growth for some nations while also creating inequalities in large parts of the Middle East Latin America and Africa From an environmental viewpoint J R McNeill and Peter Engelke contend that humanity has entered a new epoch the Anthropocene era in which massive industrialization and population growth have become the most powerful influences upon global ecology Petra Goedde analyzes how globalization has impacted indigenous cultures and questions the extent to which a generic culture has erased distinctiveness and authenticity She shows how paradoxically the more cultures blended the more diversified they became as well Combining these different perspectives volume editor Akira Iriye presents a model of transnational historiography in which individuals and groups enter history not primarily as citizens of a country but as migrants tourists artists and missionaries actors who create networks that transcend traditional geopolitical boundaries

Biodivinity and Biodiversity Dr Emma Tomalin, 2013-05-28 This book is concerned with the argument that religious traditions are inherently environmentally friendly Yet in a developing country such as India the majority of people cannot afford to put the Earth first regardless of the extent to which this idea can be supported by their religious traditions Does this mean that the linking of religion and environmental concerns is a strategy more suited to contexts where people have a level of material security that enables them to think and act like environmentalists This question is approached through a series of case studies from Britain and India The book concludes that there is a tension between the romantic ecological discourse common among many western activists and scholars and a more pragmatic approach which is often found in India The adoption of environmental causes by the Hindu Right in India makes it difficult to distinguish genuine concern for the environment from the broader politics surrounding the idea of a Hindu rashtra nation This raises a further level of analysis which has not been provided in other studies advanced students researchers and professionals in ecology and conservation wildlife management human wildlife interactions environmental education and environmental social science

Reintroduction of Top-Order Predators Matt W. Hayward, Michael Somers, 2009-05-06 Large predators are among the most threatened species on the planet and ways of conserving them in the face of increasing human populations and associated resource requirements are becoming critical This book draws upon the experiences of some of the world's foremost large carnivore specialists to discuss the numerous issues associated reintroducing large predators back into their natural habitats Reviews of internationally renowned reintroduction programs for wolves European lynx and African wild dog reveal the successes and failures of these actions Experts on tigers snow leopards and jaguars contend that there are other conservation options of higher priority that will ensure their security in the long term Other experts discuss more theoretical aspects such as whether we know enough about these species to be able to predict their behavioural or ecological response to the reintroduction process Social economic political and genetic considerations are also addressed

Ecology and Power in the Age of Empire Corey Ross, 2017-03-31 Ecology and Power in the Age of Empire provides the first wide ranging environmental history of the heyday of European imperialism from the late nineteenth century to the end of the colonial era It focuses on the ecological dimensions of the explosive growth of tropical commodity production global trade and modern resource management transformations that still visibly shape our world today and how they were related to broader social cultural and political developments in Europe's colonies Covering the overseas empires of all the major European powers Corey Ross argues that tropical environments were not merely a stage on which conquest and subjugation took place but were an essential part of the colonial project profoundly shaping the imperial enterprise even as they were shaped by it The story he tells is not only about the complexities of human experience but also about people's relationship with the ecosystems in which they were themselves embedded the soil water plants and animals that were likewise a part of Europe's empire Although it shows that imperial conquest rarely represented a sudden bout of ecological devastation it nonetheless demonstrates that modern imperialism marked a decisive and largely negative milestone for the natural environment By relating the expansion of modern empire global trade and mass consumption to the momentous ecological shifts that they entailed this book provides a historical perspective on the vital nexus of social political and environmental issues that we face in the twenty first century world

Routeing Democracy in the Himalayas Vibha Arora, N. Jayaram, 2020-11-29 Historically treated as an amorphous borderland and marginal to the understanding of democratic politics and governance in South Asia Southeast Asia and northern Asia the Himalayan region in the last 50 years has become an active political laboratory for experiments in democratic structures and institutions In turn it has witnessed the evolution of myriad political ideologies movements and administrative strategies to accommodate and pacify heterogeneous ethnic national identities Routeing Democracy in the Himalayas highlights how through an ongoing process of democratisation the Western liberal ideologies of democracy and decentralisation have interacted with varied indigenous politico cultural ideas and institutions of an ethnic nationally diverse population It also reviews how formal democracy regular elections local self governing structures protection of the rights of minorities and indigenes freedom of expression development of mass media and formation of ethnic homelands all have furthered participatory democracy empowered the traditionally marginalised groups and ensured sustainable development to varying degrees The book provides ethnographic and historical vistas of democracy under formation at work being contested and even being undermined showing how democratisation thematically stitches the independent Himalayan nations and the Indian Himalayan states into a distinctive regional political mosaic Combining new perspectives from comparative sociology political anthropology and development studies the volume will be useful for policy makers as well as specialists researchers and students in sociology anthropology area studies development studies and Tibet and Himalayan studies

Contesting Conservation Saloni Gupta, 2018-02-03 This book explores today's changing intellectual climate wherein understanding politics at different levels from global to local is considered mandatory in order to appraise the outcome of nature conservation interventions By carefully examining two such processes the ban on shahtoosh trade and the National Afforestation Programme in the Indian state of Jammu and Kashmir the book reveals how these processes are influenced by politics at different levels from their introduction at the macro level to their implementation at the micro level and in turn become coloured by the agendas and interests of the various stakeholders involved Throughout the book one priority is to give a voice to the poor resource users who have been traditionally dependent on wildlife and forest resources for mere subsistence Yet these same people are who bear the brunt of nature conservation costs rather than those actors who are responsible for the most serious violations in pursuit of greater profits Contemporary Environmental Sociology is chiefly characterised by its focus on power relations in resource conservation and management In political ecology literature too especially after recognising the paradoxes and limitations of approaches such as sustainable development sustainable livelihoods and community based natural resource management there is a growing concern for critical analyses of multi level politics in connection with nature conservation The purpose of the book is not to challenge the gravity of environmental concerns but to question the dominance of conservation interests over the subsistence needs of local communities and to strike a balance between environmental and social justice It argues that unless and until more just accountability for the affected populations is ensured conservation policies are unlikely to meet the goals of sustainable resource management Given its critical engagement with human nature conflicts in Jammu and Kashmir the book offers a unique resource for students and scholars of Environmental Sociology Political Ecology Natural Resources Management Conflict Studies and Human Rights Studies
