Teresa Obolevitch

Bog I Mirovov Zlo:

Dostoevsky's Convictional Theology Expressed in His Life and Literature Dumitru Sevastian, 2021-03-12 Fyodor Dostoevsky was not a theologian and his books are not books of theology However there is a living way that emerges from the study of his life and work convictions made manifest in the details of his own life and the lives of his characters Utilizing James William McClendon's conception of biography as theology Dr Dumitru Sevastian explores the lived convictions that emerge from three distinct periods in Dostoevsky's life the pre Siberian Siberian and post Siberian each represented by one of his novels The Poor Folk The House of the Dead and The Brothers Karamazov What emerges is a powerful expression of faith formed in community and tempered in suffering an example relevant to all Christians seeking to model their lives and relationships on the dying and resurrected Christ

Bergson and Russian Modernism, 1900-1930 Hilary L. Fink, 1999 This study focuses on the Russian modernist attraction to Bergson's notions of duration and intuition his unbridled optimism in both art and life and his belief in the individual's creative power

Faith and Science in Russian Religious Thought

Teresa Obolevitch, 2019-05-09 Faith and Science in Russian Religious Thought provides a comprehensive analysis of the relationship between science and faith in Russian religious thought. Teresa Obolevitch offers a synthetic approach on the development of the problem throughout the whole history of Russian thought starting from the medieval period and arriving in contemporary times. She considers the relationship between science and religion in the eighteenth century, the so-called academic philosophy of the 19th and 20th century, the thought of Peter Chaadaev, the Slavophiles, and in the most influential literature figures such as Fedor Dostoevsky and Lev Tolstoy. The volume also analyses two channels of the formation of philosophy in the context of the relationship between theology and science in Russia. The first is connected with the attempt to rationalize the truths of faith and is exemplified by Vladimir Soloviev and Nikolai Lossky; the second with the apophatic tradition is presented by Pavel Florensky and Semen Frank. The book then describes the relation to scientific knowledge in the thought of Lev Shestov, Nikolai Berdyaev, Sergius Bulgakov, and Alexei Losev, as well as the original project of Russian Cosmism on the examples of Nikolai Fedorov, Konstantin Tsiolkovsky, and Vladimir Vernadsky. Obolevitch presents the current state of the discussion on this topic by paying attention to the Neopatristic synthesis of Fr. Georges Florovsky and his followers and offers the brief comparative analysis of the relationship between science and religion from the Western and Russian perspectives.

Dostoevsky and the Christian Tradition George Pattison, Diane Oenning Thompson, 2001-09-06

Dostoevsky is one of Russia's greatest novelists and a major influence in modern debates about religion both in Russia and the West. This collection brings together Western and Russian perspectives on the issues raised by the religious element in his work. The aim of this collection is not to abstract Dostoevsky's religious teaching from his literary works but to explore the interaction between his Christian faith and his writing. The essays cover such topics as temptation, grace, and law; Dostoevsky's use of the gospels and hagiography; Trinitarianism and the Russian tradition of the veneration of icons; as well as reading aloud and dialogism. In addition to an exploration of the impact of the Christian tradition on Dostoevsky's major novels, Crime and Punishment, The Idiot, and The Brothers Karamazov, there are also discussions of lesser-known works such as The Landlady and A Little Boy at Christ's Christmas Tree.

Dostoevsky's Conception of Man Peter McGuire Wolf, 1997-10

Dostoevsky's novels have contributed to a conception of man that reverberates in the conclusions of prominent twentieth-century philosophical anthropologists. Max Scheler, Martin Heidegger, Jean-Paul Sartre, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Albert Camus, among others, have admitted that the works of Dostoevsky had an influence on the manner in which they learned to conceive of human nature and the world in which humans live. Our aim in this dissertation is to ask what is there in the novels of Dostoevsky concerning the nature of man, of which certain philosophers could claim that in their philosophical conceptions of man they were positively influenced by him. The main thesis is substantiated with a careful analysis of four novels: Notes From the House of the Dead, Zapiski iz mertvogo doma, Notes From the Underground, Zapiski iz podpol'ia, Crime and Punishment, Prestuplenie i nakazanie, and The Brothers Karamazov, Brat'ia Karamazovy. These novels were chosen partly because I have come to the conclusion that these novels more than others concretely show in what sense the leading characters appear to have made themselves be what they had freely chosen to be under the circumstances in which they had to live and that they were fully aware of the responsibility they had to bear for the implications and consequences of what they had thus decided. Based upon a close reading four interpretive chapters employ the most significant criticism from English, Russian, and French literary scholarship. Dostoevsky's philosophical conception of man is compared and contrasted with the conception that Scheler and Heidegger hold, i.e. that freedom is man's essence. Sartre's atheistic humanism and Camus' thought. The following conclusions are consonant with Dostoevsky's work: freedom is constitutive for the being or the mode of being; essence of man: it is an inalienable duty one must become oneself. Man strives to overcome himself and to exceed his freedom but in so doing invariably loses it. Man exceeds himself only in the sense that he realizes an ideal human possibility. The Dostoevskian man reveals not only the absence of human nature but also the enormous power which man possesses for achieving his ideal human possibility. Russian Studies in Literature, 2002 Religion in Eastern Europe, 1993 The Dostoevsky Encyclopedia Kenneth Lantz, 2004-06-30 One of the greatest writers of all time, Fyodor Dostoevsky (1821-1881) is best known for such masterpieces as Crime and Punishment and The Brothers Karamazov. His works are widely read and studied today and he has received much biographical and critical attention. Like many other writers of enduring literature, he engages timeless moral and theological issues. His writings and ideas are complex and reflect the swirling political and intellectual controversies of his time. This encyclopedia is a convenient and comprehensive guide to his life and writings. Through more than 200 alphabetically arranged entries, this reference details his life and career. Each of his fictional works is discussed, as are his major pieces of journalism. There are also entries for his family members, close friends, and associates; places where he lived; literary movements with which he is associated; and journals or newspapers in which he published. Also included are entries for major writers and thinkers who influenced his works and for ideas and themes that figure prominently in his writings. The entries cite works for further reading, and the encyclopedia closes with a selected general bibliography of major works.
