The CBI's submission to the construction industrial strategy

CBI on industrial strategy

Establishing a shared vision for construction in 2025

An industrial strategy for construction developed by the sector and government has the potential to unleash growth in the industry and drive transformation. It will help secure the business environment that enables construction to thrive by creating long-term operational certainty.

The CBI's 2019 report Playing our strongest hand – Maximising the UK's industrial opportunities set out the case for developing industrial strategies in key growth sectors to rebalance the economy towards investment and trade. The construction sector is a key economic enabler – creating and maintaining our built environment. The sector has strong potential for growth because of its job-creation capacity, extensive value chain and talent capacity as a result of the recession.

As part of a suite of industrial strategies, the government will launch the construction industrial strategy in summer 2023. This should be the start of an evolving process of industry and government working in partnership to deliver the strategy. This paper sets out the CBI's views on an industrial strategy for construction and is based on extensive discussions with the construction sector and the wider business community.

In the future the construction sector will be an enabler of other industries, providing services that exceed expectations by leveraging world-leading expertise. A strong domestic manufacturing sector will be at the heart of an innovative and competitive sector.

A shared vision for the future of the sector will need to be at the centre of a successful industrial strategy for construction. A strategy that delivers built England will ensure:

- The construction sector is at the heart of the UK's economic growth
- Construction is an economic engine that meets and creates demand from key sectors
- By harnessing sources of competitive advantage, construction will be a world-leading industry by 2025.

Tony Newson

Britains Economic Future An Immediate Programme For Revival:

Britain's Competitiveness Dr Christopher Carr, 2003-09-02 This book addresses the widespread concern regarding British industry's ability to compete internationally Through an analysis of the UK automotive components sector the author examines the central issues at the core of the competitiveness debate and outlines why there has been such a widespread and severe decline in the performance of British manufacturing It draws on findings from visits to thirty British manufacturers and also to thirty overseas manufacturers in Germany the USA and Japan matched on a product basis to allow comparisons and a genuine international perspective The author concludes that competitive decline is due in part to a weakness in the strategic management capability of many UK companies and also to the lack of adequate co ordination and co operation between customer and supplier industries Dr Carr identifies the remaining areas of vulnerability and priorities for action and finally considers the implications for Britain's overall competitiveness Labour's Renewal? Gerald R.

Taylor, 2016-07-27 This is an important critical assessment of Labour's periods of renewal and modernisation Beginning with an indepth analysis of the Policy Review of 1987-92 the author then considers how the lessons of this period influenced the Commission on Social Justice instigated by John Smith and Tony Blair's reform of Clause IV These events are considered as attempts to resolve traditional problems facing the Labour Party the abiding legacy and importance of these fundamental problems is assessed Britain's Economic Future Christopher Hawkins, 1983 Bulletin of the Public Affairs
