Imperial Reckoning Caroline Elkins, 2010-04-01 A major work of history that for the first time reveals the violence and terror at the heart of Britain's civilizing mission in Kenya As part of the Allied forces thousands of Kenyans fought alongside the British in World War II But just a few years after the defeat of Hitler the British colonial government detained nearly the entire population of Kenya's largest ethnic minority the Kikuyu some one and a half million people The compelling story of the system of prisons and work camps where thousands met their deaths has remained largely untold the victim of a determined effort by the British to destroy all official records of their attempts to stop the Mau Mau uprising the Kikuyu people's ultimately successful bid for Kenyan independence Caroline Elkins an assistant professor of history at Harvard University spent a decade in London Nairobi and the Kenyan countryside interviewing hundreds of Kikuyu men and women who survived the British camps as well as the British and African loyalists who detained them The result is an unforgettable account of the unraveling of the British colonial empire in Kenya a pivotal moment in twentieth century history with chilling parallels to America's own imperial project Imperial Reckoning is the winner of the 2006 Pulitzer Prize for Nonfiction

Duncan Sandys and the Informal Politics of Britain's Late Decolonisation Peter Brooke, 2017-11-08 This book throws new light on the impact of informal old boy networks on British decolonisation Duncan Sandys was one of the leading Conservative politicians of the middle decades of twentieth century Britain He was also a key figure in the Harold Macmillan's Winds of Change policy of decolonisation serving as Secretary for the Colonies and Commonwealth Relations from 1960 to 1964 When he lost office he fought strenuously to undermine the new Labour Government's attempts to accelerate colonial withdrawal and improve race relations in Britain Sandys developed important private business interests in Africa and intervened personally through both public and official channels on the question of Rhodesia Commonwealth immigration and the East of Suez withdrawal in the late 1960s This book will appeal to students of decolonisation and twentieth century British politics alike

Britain, France and the Decolonization of Africa Andrew W.M. Smith, Chris Jeppesen, 2017-03-01 Looking at decolonization in the conditional tense this volume teases out the complex and uncertain ends of British and French empire in Africa during the period of late colonial shift after 1945 Rather than view decolonization as an inevitable process the contributors together explore the crucial historical moments in which change was negotiated compromises were made and debates were staged Three core themes guide the analysis development contingency and entanglement The chapters consider the ways in which decolonization was governed and moderated by concerns about development and profit A complementary focus on contingency allows deeper consideration of how colonial powers planned for colonial futures and how divergent voices greeted the end of empire Thinking about entanglements likewise stresses both the connections that existed between the British and French empires in Africa and those that endured beyond the formal transfer of power Praise for Britain France and the Decolonization of Africa this ambitious volume represents a significant step forward for the field As is often the case with rich and stimulating work the volume gestures towards more themes than I have space to properly address in this review These include shifting terrains of temporality spatial Scales and state sovereignty which together raise important questions about the relationship between decolonization and globalization By bringing all of these crucial issues into the same frame Britain France and the Decolonization of Africa is sure to inspire new thought provoking research H France vol 17 issue 205
