Behind The Razor Wire Portrait Of A Contemporary American Prison System:

Behind the Razor Wire, 1999 More than one million Americans live in federal and state prisons and close to another half million are in local jails One out of every three young black men is involved in the criminal justice system To house our ever increasing prison population the construction of new prisons has become a growth industry in many local and state economies Yet while prisons are a rapidly expanding feature of America's cultural and political landscape the people in them as well as the buildings themselves remain hidden from public consciousness Determined to break this silence Michael Jacobson Hardy entered the prison system to record the voices and the lives of the people who live and work within its walls Behind the Razor Wire continues the tradition of documentary photography by reporting in words and photographs on the conditions in the American prison system Jacobson Hardy examines the physical and psychological environments of a range of contemporary correctional institutions and the lives they contain The foreword by Angela Y Davis and essays by John Edgar Wideman Marc Mauer and James Gilligan MD make a searing indictment of America's criminal justice system while offering a framework for understanding the photographs in their historical and cultural context By recording the faces the emotions and the lives of those who live and work in the prison system Jacobson Hardy heightens public awareness and promotes dialogue on criminal justice policy Behind the Razor Wire creates a visual portrait of prisons and prisoners and a compelling documentary of how prisoners see themselves and of how in turn they are seen by others

Prison Writing and the Literary World Michelle Kelly, Claire Westall, 2020-10-27 Prison Writing and the Literary World tackles international prison writing and writing about imprisonment in relation to questions of literary representation and formal aesthetics the value or values of literature textual censorship and circulation institutional networks and literary critical methodologies It offers scholarly essays exploring prison writing in relation to wartime internment political imprisonment resistance and independence creation regimes of terror and personal narratives of development and awakening that grapple with race class and gender Cutting across geospatial divides while drawing on nation and region specific expertise it asks readers to connect the questions examples and challenges arising from prison writing and writing about imprisonment within the UK and the USA but also across continental Europe Stalinist Russia the Americas Africa and the Middle East It also includes critical reflection pieces from authors editors educators and theatre practitioners with experience of the fraught testing and potentially inspiring links between prison and the literary world

Camerado, I Give You My Hand Maura Poston Zagrans, 2013-08-27 For many years Dr David T Link helped young men and women prepare to become lawyers After his wife died and at a time in his life when most people retire Dr Link felt called to serve the Church and to aid the men that his profession normally put behind bars ministering healing and forgiveness to murderers thieves and what many would call the least of society This is a book about the value of human life and about the transformative power of friendship and compassion Meeting Father Dave gives us hope that one person can make a difference and through successive reinterpretations of his own life s purpose he makes the case for adding our own unique gifts to help the least of these our brothers and sisters from all walks of life Song of the Open Road by Walt Whitman Camerado I give you my hand I give you my love more precious than money I give you myself before preaching or law Will you give me yourself will you come travel with me Shall we stick by each other as long as we live Choreographing in Color J. Lorenzo Perillo,2020-08-24 In Choreographing in Color J Lorenzo Perillo draws on nearly two decades of ethnography choreographic analysis and community engagement to ask what does it mean for Filipinos to navigate violent forces of empire and neoliberalism with street dance and Hip Hop From... .. Bars To... .. Windows Andrew McDermott,Drexel Reid,2011 Through out the past quarter century there has been an increased focus on corrections both as a means of social control i e reducing crime and generating income i e profiteering from punishment and with this in mind From Bars to Windows attempts to examine how and explain why we can change the orientation of national correctional policy to more equitably spread the wealth generated by our nations prison system Unlike the traditional staple of prison writing comprised of psuedo redemptive autobiography s violence sexual brutality and the like From Bars to Windows concentrates more on the fundamental economics of our prison system Indeed this book is a virtual how to manual that explains the in s and outs of ethically and morally profiteering from our prison system The book lays out exactly how investors can reap tremendous profits by taking advantage of the readily available for profit prison industrial infrastructure that exists within our country Market conditions are such that now the Green Energy sector is poised for virtually unparalleled growth On the other side of the equation there s a burgeoning prison manufacturing sector For instance there were over 100 Federal prison based factories which employed more than 21 000 inmates and generated over 546 3 million in net sales in 2003 alone As multi nationals realize that continued outsourcing of manufacturing jobs is no longer a viable or sustainable strategy there s going to be an inexorable nexus between manufacturing on the one hand and rehabilitative Prison industries on the other with billions in potential profits at stake Some of the highlights of the book include defines and explains Gatsian economic theory explains how prisons and profiteering are inextricably linked provides an examination of how the inherent economic potential of the prison black market can be harnessed to yield net economic gains for society Women, Writing, and Prison Tobi Jacobi,Ann Folwell Stanford,2014-11-13 This collection includes a kaleidoscope of voices and perspectives from prisoners former prisoners scholars and activists to examine the extraordinarily invisible and closed system of incarceration that characterizes the massive U S prison industry The book explores in multiple ways the role of writing in carceral settings including material realities ethics and social justice It is a book about the power of writing as well as its limits It is a book that celebrates and critiques challenges and reveals It is a book that like the writing of incarcerated women repays careful reading Metaphors of Confinement Monika Fludernik,2019-08-13 Metaphors of Confinement The Prison in Fact Fiction and Fantasy offers a historical survey of imaginings of the prison as expressed in carceral metaphors in a range of texts about imprisonment from Antiquity to the present as well as non penal situations described as confining or restrictive. These imaginings coalesce into a carceral imaginary that determines the way we think about prisons just as social debates about punishment and criminals feed into the way carceral imaginary develops over time. Examining not only English language prose fiction but also poetry and drama from the Middle Ages to postcolonial particularly African literature the book juxtaposes literary and non literary contexts and contrasts fictional and nonfictional representations of imprisonment and discussions about the prison as institution and experiential reality. It comments on present day trends of punitivity and foregrounds the ethical dimensions of penal punishment. The main argument concerns the continuity of carceral metaphors through the centuries despite historical developments that included major shifts in policy such as the invention of the penitentiary. The study looks at selected carceral metaphors often from two complementary perspectives such as the home as prison or the prison as home or the factory as prison and the prison as factory. The case studies present particularly relevant genres and texts that employ these metaphors often from a historical perspective that analyses development through different periods.

Open Your Heart David P. Sandell, 2015-04-15 In this ethnography of Catholic religious practice in Fresno California David P Sandell unveils ritualized storytelling that Mexican and Mexican American people of faith use to cope with racism and poverty associated with colonial capitalist and modern social conditions. Based on in depth interviews and extensive field research conducted in 2000 and 2001 Sandell's work shows how people use story and religious ritual including the Matachines dance the Mass the rosary pilgrimage and processions to create a space in their lives free from oppression. These people give meaning to the expression open your heart the book argues through ritual and stories enabling them to engage the mind and body in a movement toward as one participant said the sacred center of their lives. Sandell argues that the storytelling represents a tradition of poetics that provides an alternative emancipatory epistemology. Amrico Paredes for example defined this tradition in his scholarship of border balladry. According to Paredes storytelling with ritual elements raises a feature of performance characterized as a convivial disposition and shared sense of identity among people who call themselves Mexican not for national identification but for a cultural one understood as Greater Mexico. Sandell contributes to this tradition and achieves an understanding of Greater Mexico characterized by people whose stories and rituals help them find common ground unity and wholeness through an open heart.

White Men Challenging Racism Cooper Thompson, Emmett Schaeffer, Harry Brod, 2003-04-21 Narratives exploring the lives experiences and feelings on racism from anti racist white men who are committed to social justice.
