Good Intentions Are Not Enough: Why We Fail At Helping Others Robin Boon Peng Low, 2016-10-18 Disaster strikes transforming cities and towns into graveyards and wastelands in a matter of minutes But help is on its way news channels and social media relay the information to all corners of the globe in real time mobilising hundreds of people and organisations to aid Yet with standard relief packages regardless of the location and a lack of effort taken to match volunteers skills with tasks just how effective are we at helping others Many people want to do good but they like to do it at their convenience These attempts at helping often fail and the blame invariably falls on the disaster victims rather than looking at the suitability of aid provided Such help offered without a thorough understanding of the context or the impact of actions can create situations that leave the victims worse off than before So how can we create real sustainable impact Most communities have a lot of unused human capacity When offering help many aid providers fail to engage the local communities thus excluding a critical group of people with the knowledge of local ways and needs This book elaborates on a simple principle essential to effective aid Never Help Engage Enable Empower and Connect It is important that we fully understand the problem before we try to solve it and who better to help us with solutions than the local community

Consumer Moral Leadership Sue L.T. McGregor, 2010-01-01 This book shares a collection of novel ways to re conceptualize and envision the moral imperatives of consumption thereby providing invigorating insights for future dialogue and intellectual and social action It privileges a consumer moral leadership imperative which augments the conventional management imperatives of sustainability ethics simplicity and environmental integrity There are 13 chapters including first ever discussions of non violent consumption transdisciplinary consumption consumer moral adulthood integral informed consumption conscious and mindful consumption biomimicry informed consumption and consumer moral leadership as a new intellectual construct The book strives to intellectually and philosophically challenge and reframe the act culture and ideology of consuming The intent is to foster new hope that leads to differently informed activism and to provocative research policy entrepreneurial and educational initiatives that favour the human condition the collective human family and interconnected integrity This book strives to move consumers from managing for efficiency to leading for moral efficacy the ability to use their existing moral capacities to deal with moral challenges in the marketplace The very core of what it means to be a morally responsible member of the human family is challenged and re framed through the lens of consumer moral leadership
